

Goldwater sees tough time for Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says he has a private poll showing that Watergate will cause a 10 per cent loss of votes for all Republican candidates this year.

He said that without a virtually magic change for the better, the loss will be enough to spell the wholesale defeats for GOP candidates for governor and the Senate and House.

"I want to tell you it's going to be goddamned tough for any Republican to get re-elected, including myself, and I look in pretty good shape," the Arizona Republican said in an interview.

Goldwater said that, as late as two months ago, his polls showed Watergate disclosures hurting Democrats as much as Republicans in a kind of general public disgust with all politicians.

"Now the poll indicates Watergate is going to hurt only Republicans," he said.

"We'll lose in the Senate, no question about it," Goldwater said. In the course of a pessimistic political analysis, he said the GOP is beginning its campaign for Senate seats by losing three, and perhaps four, "sure bets" through retirement and resignation.

Goldwater said he has seen no evidence to indicate that President Nixon should either be asked to resign or be forced to face the impeachment process.

But he said that, if Mr. Nixon were to step aside, Vice President Gerald R. Ford is the best possible person to succeed him.

Goldwater said the true dimensions of the problem facing Republican candidates are made up of the Watergate disclosures, Nixon's 27 per cent standing in national polls, and the chances that both the economy and the energy crisis could worsen.

"I can sense a strong feeling right here on the hill, and you're going to see it more and more as weeks go on, that many Republican members of Congress would like to run this year without Mr. Nixon," Goldwater said.

Goldwater said the poll was prepared by pollster Richard Wirtline of Anaheim, Calif.

The substantial Republican losses foreshadowed by the Wirtline poll will not be reversed "unless things take a decided turn for the better," Goldwater said.

Such a reversal would have to include "a very, very obvious and successful" solution to the Middle East problem and a quick and complete solution to the energy crisis, "so that we would never again have to depend on foreign sources of energy," he said.

"You're not going to get people voting for Republicans just because we don't have a recession or we don't increase unemployment," Goldwater said.

"These things have to be of such magic that people will forget Mr. Nixon's problems."

Energy vote being pushed in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders say they are likely to move by Wednesday to force a vote on emergency energy legislation stalled by a controversy over excess profits earned by the oil industry.

A vote could come as early as today, Senate leaders said.

Word of plans to head off an anticipated filibuster by Republicans and senators from oil-producing states came as Senate investigators quizzed oil company executives on whether the energy crisis is real or contrived.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, on Monday asked representatives of the seven leading oil firms how shortages could exist when their own figures show fuel inventories running more than 5 per cent above last year's levels.

Members of the panel of oil executives pointed out that shortages also occurred last year and attributed this year's increased levels to warmer than normal weather and public conservation efforts. Harry Bridges, president of Shell, predicted "acute shortfalls in the next few months in all products."

Citing the record profits reported by many oil companies last year, Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., said "It would seem actually that the oil companies never had it so good."

Z.D. Bonner, president of Gulf Oil, responded that the "matter of profits is greatly misunderstood," arguing that his company needed a rate of return of 12 to 15 per cent in order to have adequate incentive to explore for new sources of oil.

Figures presented to a House subcommittee last week showed that profits of the top five oil companies were 48.6 per cent higher in the first nine months of 1973 than the same period in 1972.

The oil executives told Jackson's subcommittee that despite the recent high profit levels, oil industry profits were no higher than other industries measured over a five-year period. "You have years when you are up and years when you're down," Roy A. Baze, senior vice president for Exxon said.

The question of oil industry profits is said to be the chief roadblock in the way of passage of the emergency energy bill that would give President Nixon authority to order gasoline rationing and enforce energy conservation measures that are now voluntary.

The Senate resumed debate on the bill Monday, but Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., indicated he intended to resume the filibuster that prevented passage of the measure before Congress adjourned last month.

chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court." His pronouncement several weeks ago that he was going to retire came just as succinctly. O'Neill stresses that as a jurist, he cannot campaign while sitting on the bench.

However, when he first decided to retire, the former governor and one-time speaker of the House was quoted as saying he would not run again because of a possible conflict of interest if his son were to be elected attorney. His son's decision removed that possibility.

President sets State message

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will deliver his State of the Union address before a joint session of Congress and a nationwide broadcast audience at 9:30 p.m. EDT Jan. 30.

The White House and congressional leaders announced the scheduling Monday. Nixon originally arranged to give the address at 12:30 p.m. EDT Jan. 29, then changed it to 8:30 p.m. EDT that day at the suggestion of Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

Employee contributions required

National health program disclosed by President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has outlined to key congressmen a proposed national health care plan based principally on private insurance purchased by employers and employees.

It would be designed so that no individual or family after paying a share of the premium would be liable for more than $1,500 a year for the broad range of health services covered by the policy, even in the case of catastrophic illnesses.

Employers would be required to offer the coverage to employees. After a transition period employers would have to pay 75 per cent of the premium, which was estimated to average $625 for a family and $250 for an individual per year.

There would be a separate government program for low-income families, regardless of their work status, non-working families and those with unusually high medical risks.

Medicare, the Social Security health plan for the aged, would continue with generally the existing cost to the beneficiaries, but with expanded benefits. Medicaid, the federal-state program for low-income persons, would largely be absorbed into the new government plan.

The draft proposal was outlined to the House Ways and Means Committee at a closed session Monday with Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger. Some details became available afterward. The plan still is subject to modification before its formal presentation to Congress, scheduled for next month.

One major unsettled area is the financing of the public segment of the plan. It was estimated to require $5.9 billion of added federal spending and about $1 billion of added state spending. However, much of the additional state spending would be offset by reduction in existing programs to which the states contribute.

Prospects for enactment of the plan

this year are doubtful. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, where such legislation must originate, said that group might be able to begin work on national health programs if it finishes consideration of tax reform legislation by June.

The proposal also faces the rivalry of the all-government health plan being pushed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and others.

Sixth, ninth grades to move

School restructure OK'd by city board

By GEORGE MALEK

In a consensus opinion, the Washington C.H. City Board of Education indicated Monday night that school administrators should proceed in their plans to reorganize the city schools through the creation of a middle school. Under the proposal for the 1974-75 school year, the sixth graders would be relocated in the Junior High School building and freshmen would attend Washington Senior High School.

Innovation has become the keynote of education in the Washington C.H. city schools during the past year as school officials are intently trying to keep the system in abreast of changing society.

IN ADDITION to the introduction of the middle school concept, a mini-workshop program will be tried for the first time at the high school level. Approval of the mini-workshop was granted by the board during part of the lengthy meeting which covered a variety of items on the agenda.

Statistically, the junior high school student has been the most disenfranchised with the public educational system. Most of the "high school dropouts" become apathetic or antagonistic toward school during these middle years which suggests that this area should receive a number one priority from school administrators.

The middle school concept, which has been instituted in a number of other systems, attempts to be a transitional medium between the confines of elementary school and latitude of the high school. In this area, the traditional

Ohio Senate panel passes amendment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Senate committee recommended today passage of the controversial Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution prohibiting discrimination on the basis of sex.

The vote in the Senate Financial Institutions, Insurance and Elections Committee was 6-2.

Sen. Paul R. Matia, R-25 Westlake, was absent.

Before the vote was taken, Sen. Robert O'Shaughnessy, D-15 Columbus, moved that action of the committee defeating ERA last year be rescinded. The move had been anticipated.

O'Shaughnessy and Sen. Anthony Novak, D-23 Cleveland, voted for the resolution. They had opposed it last year.

About 150 persons, most of them women, were in the committee room when the vote was taken. They applauded the action.

A motion to reconsider is not debatable.

A change of policy by the Ohio AFL-CIO, which last year opposed the proposal, apparently breathed new life into the measure the second time around.

The House-passed bill is expected to have little trouble on the Senate floor. Ohio would be the 33rd state to ratify the amendment. Thirty eight states must approve it to make it law.

Ohio GOP having trouble filling election ticket

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chief Justice C. William O'Neill will seek re-election this year instead of stepping down as previously announced, he said, Monday.

His announcement came in the form of a one-sentence news release only hours after his son, State Rep. Charles William O'Neill, R-28 Columbus, bowed out of the race for the GOP nomination for attorney general.

In other developments in an increasingly shaky attempt by Republicans to mount a state ticket for the May primary, Sen. Paul E. Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, said he had decided not to try for the GOP nomination for state auditor.

The younger O'Neill and Gillmor had been part of a "consensus" ticket recommended last week by the Republican State Executive Committee. They were described as the best potential candidates for those offices by State GOP Chairman Kent B. McGough.

Although Gillmor and the younger O'Neill mentioned a lack of money as major reasons for their decision's McGough said it was not the only reason. "Each of them made the decision independently and for different reasons," the chairman said.

The chief justice, without fanfare, issued a press release Monday afternoon that said simply: "I am going to be a candidate for re-election as

"junior high school" has been a rather outstanding failure.

The junior high takes away the highly personal contact of the elementary without substituting enough challenge or interest to compensate for what has been lost.

The middle school attempts, through innovative teaching techniques, to enhance the curriculum of the sixth, seventh and eighth graders so that their interest in school will not be stifled.

Block course and team teaching are two techniques often used in the middle school. Instead of having students change classrooms and teachers for each course, the courses are combined.

Community education head employed for program here

The City Board of Education approved Monday evening the employment of Todd (Hank) Shaffer, for the position of community education director. Shaffer, 22, will be responsible for the organization and implementation of a community education program for the Washington C.H. area.

He is a graduate of the University of Illinois where he majored in park and recreation administration, and recently completed work in Danville, Ill., where he was a staff member with the recreational department and was largely responsible for the initiation of a community education program.

Included in his background for the position is a summer spent in Scotland where he directed a summer activities program.

Shaffer, who was recently married, to his wife, Betty, will be moving here soon.

He was one of 10 persons interviewed for the directorship and seemed by far the most qualified to establish a new program. Ball State University, a leader in community education, highly recommended Shaffer for the job.

COMMUNITY education is a catch-all for community involvement in recreational, educational, and hobby-type activities. It is designed to offer area residents on alternative to television mania and arguing with members of the family.

In its advanced stages a community education program offers those in the community, young and old, an opportunity to pursue their special interests and to create new ones.

The initial form of the program in Washington C.H. is likely to be a more comprehensive summer recreational program. In the fall, school facilities will be available for some hobby-centered seminars.

Although the Mott Foundation has contributed $2,000 to help fund the program and local sponsors have help with monetary gifts, the responsibility for maintaining the program will fall on, not through taxation, but through a belief that the program is of benefit to the residents.

Even though the program should be self-sufficient in a developed stage, additional funds will be most appreciated at the onset to hasten the progress of specific proposals. The funds for the project are in an account at the Washington Savings Bank, and contributions may be made there.

Abortion ruling still controversial

NEW YORK (AP) — One year and an estimated 800,000 abortions later, the controversy still rages over the U.S. Supreme Court decision that struck down most laws prohibiting abortions.

Anti-abortion groups are pressing for a constitutional amendment that would nullify the decision. In 10 states, they have succeeded in obtaining laws that limit the circumstances under which abortions may be performed.

Their success has begun to worry those who regarded the court decision as a long-needed reform.

"It's a very serious situation and we are considerably worried about these anti-abortion moves," Lawrence Lader, chairman of the National Abortion Rights Action League, said in an interview.

"We were caught short by the success of the opposition's efforts," he said. "It's hard for people to realize that it is possible for a Supreme Court decision to be overturned."

The court decision, issued a year ago today, said that state laws prohibiting abortion in the first three months of pregnancy were unconstitutional. Abortions after the first three months were declared legal but subject to state regulation.

At the time, an estimated one million women a year had been undergoing illegal abortions in secret, often under conditions that endangered their health. In the year since, the Population Council estimates that 800,000 women have had abortions under supervised medical care in hospitals and clinics.

Opposition to the abortion decision is spearheaded by the National Right to Life (Please turn to page 14)

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A local version of public TV's "Washington Week in Review" is afoot at KCET-TV in Los Angeles. But there's a major difference in the type of journalists appearing on the show.

All are working newspaper reporters who get out each day and inspect documents, grill assorted politicians, bureaucrats and other miscreants.

Columnists — which in Washington are generally defined as those who munch on what others report — aren't invited on KCET's "Los Angeles Collective News Review."

"I don't want columnists," says Taylor Hackford, who produces the half-hour, once-a-month show. "The nature of this show is going to be pretty much hard news reporting."

"And I find that I don't get a lot of hard news when I read columns."

He says he wants only journalism's front-line troops because "we're trying to get some perspective and longrange repercussions of stories they've reported, as well as some of the behind-the-scenes things they haven't written about in their articles."

On this month's show, the stories ranged from campaign contributions in California's gubernatorial race to an effort to recall a Los Angeles city councilman.

The four reporters discussing their stories were from the Los Angeles Times, the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram, the Santa Ana Register and the Northeast Newspapers chain.

Hackford, 29, says an important part of "News Review," which began last month, is that "one of the chairs is always open to a reporter from one of the suburban newspapers."

"Los Angeles, by its very nature, is all spread out and people here have less of a sense of community than they do in other major cities."

Hackford says he doesn't want reporters from Los Angeles' commercial TV stations on "News Review."

The major factor, he says, is that most don't have regular beats, or assignments, let alone air time for in-depth coverage.

"Print reporters, on the other hand, have beats," he said. "For example, Bill Boyarsky, the political reporter on the Times, knows Los Angeles, the city, the county, the state governments."

"He's there every day. And when you get a print reporter like that, someone who's immersed in a subject, I think people like this can provide a helluva lot more perspective than the people in the electronic media."

Control board OKs funds for lottery

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republicans on the state Controlling Board voted Monday against loaning $2 million to the state Lottery Commission, but the measure passed, 4-3.

But an act of the General Assembly called for the money to be given within 30 days after the lottery commission held its first meeting Dec. 5.

"We're already in violation of our own mandate," noted Rep. Frederick Young, R-38 Dayton.

"That's not the first time," countered Rep. Myrl H. Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville.

In other action during the three-hour session, the board released overtime pay for highway patrolmen on duty at the Dec. 5-8 truck blockade and approved transfer of $2.1 million from instructional grants toward a pay increase for civil service employees at state universities.

Sens. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, and Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, joined Young in voting against the full $2 million lottery loan request.

A spokesman from state Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson's office said the $2 million would be used for initial expenses, such as renting a building and hiring a staff.

OU studies college plan

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University trustees announced Monday that they will hold public meetings in March at Portsmouth on proposals for a general-technical college in Scioto County.

The board took no action on the proposed college, but they did tell Dr. Robert Flinchbaugh, director of the OU branch at Portsmouth to supply them with information on teacher tenure for use if the proposal is approved.

Earlier this month, administrators at the Portsmouth branch and the Scioto Technical College announced plans to combine their technical facilities and establish a general technical college.

Proponents of the plan said students will be able to pursue associate arts degrees in liberal arts, applied science and applied business.

The proposal met opposition from two Ironton groups. Opponents charge if the trustees approve the new college, nearby Lawrence County could lose its OU branch.

Ideas aren't commodities

A recent issue of Time magazine gave considerable space to a University of Chicago economist's championing of a decrepit and badly spavined thesis about the press. This is the notion that ideas are as much a commodity as drugs, say, or railroad service, and should be qually subject to government regulation and control. Prof. Ronald H. Coase says he doesn't think the "distinction between the market for goods and the market for ideas is valid."

In our opinion this is nonsense of the purest ray serene. We concede that the First Amendment guarantee of freedom of expression protects bad as well as responsible journalism. It could not be otherwise, for any official attempt to determine what is good and what is bad-and therefore censorable-would have to rely on the intolerable practice of prior restraint.

Once prior restraint comes in the door, free expression goes out the window.

It is disturbing to find a man with academic credentials relying on the shopworn idea, so dear to the would-be censors, that "bad" reading matter should officially be kept from poisoning minds. This seems to be exactly what Coase means when he says theat "buying harmful ideas is just as bad as buying harmful drugs."

Ideas, as history amply proves, are far more powerful than the most potent of drugs. But ideas may have power for either good or evil.

Judgment as to this is the essential function, a function that must be left to individuals

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Galbraith's fatuous proposal

A couple of weeks ago, Newsweek had an article by Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith, the gist of which was that it was unfortunate for the liberals that Vice President Spiro Agnew went under so fast, and that as far as President Nixon is concerned the liberal cause would best be served if, rather than being impeached, he were left to "swing in the wind" as an abject lesson to the electorate on what happens when it puts conservatives in office.

In short, Nixon should be left as an albatross around the Republican Party's neck right through 1976.

This has a certain superficial cunning (though, of course, anyone who seriously supported this scenario would not write it up), but at base it is fundamentally irresponsible. It is what I call "faculty meeting politics": the dirtiest and most irresponsible in the world because there are no stakes, losers don't have to pay.

In a broader political context, it is an exercise in the politics of catastrophe—one of Galbraith's areas of expertise. The same friendly Democrats who gave you Gene McCarthy and George McGovern are once again playing games with the American national interest.

WHAT THEY FAIL to comprehend is that there is a quantum jump between faculty and national politics. You can leave a weak college president in office indefinitely (with the faculty grabbing the power levers) and nothing much will happen.

Take the witness stand

Drew Pearson's diaries from 1949 to 1959, edited by his stepson, Tyler Abell, will soon be in the bookstores. I hope the publishers, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, send a copy to each member of the Senate's Watergate committee.

Drew Pearson was a useful citizen, not always in ways he intended. I lived opposite him on Twenty-ninth Street in Washington's Georgetown section from 1944 to 1948, and found him a most affable neighbor. We were poles apart on matters of fundamental philosophy, so we had little to say to each other beyond passing the time of day.

But I found him handy to control my young daughters. They had heard of Drew Pearson's journalistic reputation as an exposure artist, and I had only to suggest that Bogeyman Drew would get them in order to make them behave. They may have splashed childish graffiti on other walls, but left Drew's strictly alone even though they didn't like his Halloween trick-or-treat goodies.

RICHARD NIXON might find the Pearson revelations useful to the end of proving that Sen. Ervin, Weiker and the rest have lost perspective on skulduggery by their refusal to project the Watergate investigations backward in time.

I think bugging telephones, even in the name of national security, a most dubious business. Something certainly should be done to stop the practice. But to make Nixon uniquely responsible for things that have rightly galled Sen. Weiker is historically unfair.

If there hadn't been 40 years of Watergate antecedents to expose, Drew Pearson wouldn't have died a rich man.

The use of income-tax investigations to threaten people on White House "enemy" lists is indeed despicable. So what do you make of Pearson's mention, on page 134 of his posthumously published book, of the great FDR's starting "to investigate Roy Howard's income tax"? Roy, of course, headed the Scripps-Howard papers. Any threat to press freedom there?

Then there is the little matter of oil and dairy contributions in political campaigns. Nixon is under fire now for being politically in hock to oil "barons" for help, and he has had to take refuge in saying that his aid to the dairy states in 1972 was standardized routine.

It's good to get oil and milk practices out in the open, but it should be done on one proviso, that the Watergate Committee take note of Pearson's entries about Lyndon Johnson and his pals being the political beneficiaries of oil contributions in the past.

Drew (see page 439 of the diaries) quotes Lyndon Johnson on his "disadvantage" in having "to represent the oil and gas people." Said LBJ to Drew, "You forgive Hubert Humphrey when he champions the dairy people in Minnesota . . . You forgive Kefauver his problems. But you don't forgive me mine."

As a matter o Drew's own record, he did forgive LBJ. See page 246 of the diaries for a most interesting note: "I remember the days when Lyndon used to call me from Texas saying he had a tight primary fight and asking me to make this or that prediction regarding him."

Drew apparently didn't mind LBJ's attempt to use him for campaign purposes. He lit into Sen. Tom Dodd for taking free rides in company planes between Washington and Connecticut, but he was singularly complaisant about the time Lyndon allegedly "ordered a plane from Gen. Kelly in a hurry to fly back to Texas . . . on purely personal business" (see page 510 of the diaries).

AND (see page 498) where Drew remarks on the concessions which George Brown, the Texas pipeline operator and construction man, continued to get "from the Eisenhower Administration . . . thanks to Lyndon and Sam Rayburn." There is no particular chastisement of Lyndon for protecting Brown "on a scandalous income-tax fraud charge back under Roosevelt."

Pearson liked Lyndon where he disliked LBJ's successor in the White House sufficiently to make an issue of the fact that where the Riggs bank let Nixon have mortgage money at 4½ per cent, it charged Drew 6 per cent for a roughly identical sum. Maybe Nixon offered better security.

The game of comparisons could go on. Nixon is charged with cutting corners in fixing up San Clemente. Well, read Pearson on Eisenhower's Gettysburg farm (page 457). Ike, he said (quoting his tipsters), "did not pay for repairs on his house at Gettysburg. He wrote one firm a nice thank-you letter for putting in the intercom stem between the house and the barn for $7,000. They sent him a bill, he wrote back a thank-you note."

It's no defense of Nixon to say "they all did it." But a Senate committee should expose what "they all" did if history is to record an even-handed judgment of American political practices.

The United States paid Russia a little less than two cents an acre for Alaska in 1867.

"HOW'S THE CARPOOL WORKING OUT, THORNTON?"

Gilligan good psychiatric aide

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan was rated a "damn good" psychiatric aide trainee Monday after working 1½ hours with two mentally retarded youngsters at Orient State Institute.

Dr. George Jurcinsin, an institute consultant from Chillicothe, made the appraisal of Gilligan and added, "He relates to the kids and the kids relate to him. That's important."

Jurcinsin said it didn't matter to Jimmy Long, 11, of Lancaster, and Dexter Spencer, 16, of Cincinnati, that Gilligan was inexperienced.

Gilligan donned a knee-length white coat and worked in a ward to observe the second anniversary of a program to humanize life for Ohio's 23,000 mental patients.

Dr. Albert Soforenko, institute administrator, suggested the trainee idea to the governor.

Soforenko said, "Gilligan constantly impressed me. He really felt at ease. He didn't give the average first reaction on seeing mentally retarded people."

Gilligan began his training by lifting the 48-pound Jimmy from his special $800 wheelchair onto a exercise table.

Jimmy's blue eyes focused on the governor, and Gilligan said, "There's nothing much to look at this way."

Gilligan moved the boy's arms and fingers and remarked to nurse Bobbie Brysacz, "He has a pretty good grip." Jimmy's small hand gently squeezed the index finger of the chief executive.

and visited the 24-bed dormitory where the youngster sleeps.

The governor also worked with Dexter, who has no use of his arms or legs and is a deaf mute. Dexter wore a specially-made head harness that had a steel pointer attached.

Gilligan helped the youth punch O-H-I-O on an electric typewriter.

Gilligan said to the smiling youngster, "After all that work on the typewriter, you should be hungry."

In the cafeteria, the governor spooned potatoes, cole slaw and ground weiner to Dexter.

"I never have had pulverized weiners," Gilligan remarked. "I hope they're good."

Gilligan concluded his duty as a trainee with the feeding of Dexter.

"Two years ago this was a pig sty," he said. "Now they are eating family style. It's an indication of how much can be done at a cost of a nickel a week to the taxpayers."

He added, "We have made remarkable progress, but we've got a long way to go. At least we have turned it around and are going in the right direction."

Dr. Kenneth Gaver, director of the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said the state has spent $9.6 million in the last two years to replace old furniture, add curtains, construct partitions for additional privacy and provide more training to staff.

He said more than $900,000 has been spent on Orient, the state's largest mental institution with 2,250 residents.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Even up the odds
with a handicap

DEAR ABBY: A mother wrote in complaining because her husband would never let their eight-year-old son win at Monopoly or chess, and you agreed that the father was right.

Let's put the shoe on the other foot. Years ago, I used to play dominoes with my father, who was then getting on in years and not as sharp as he used to be. I could have beaten him every time if I had wanted to, but I often let him beat me. I can still recall the look of pleasure on his face when he'd win.

You said a child should learn to accept defeat with grace and good sportsmanship until he develops the skill to win fairly and squarely. But in the meantime, the boy is apt to think of his father as a merciless "machine" that runs over him with all the grace of a bulldozer.

GOOD JUDGMENT (I HOPE)

DEAR JUDGMENT: Letting "Papa" win at dominoes isn't the same as letting Junior win. Children are not easily fooled, and it's more confidence shattering to suspect that Daddy is "letting" them win. But read on for a better solution.

DEAR ABBY: You missed the obvious answer to Mother who thought Father should let their eight-year-old win once in a while.

Let Dad play with a handicap! Handicaps are used by pros and amateurs to even the odds in all kinds of games.

Sure, the son needs to learn how to accept defeat with grace, but losing all the time is no fun, and it teaches discouragement.

I've been playing games with my seven-year-old son for years and we both play to win because I take a handicap. As his skill increases, my handicap decreases.

Accept defeat gracefully, Abby, and tell Dad to even up the game by using this suggestion.

DOUG KINDSCH: SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

DEAR DOUG: You win! I sometimes need a greater handicap than I settle for. As in this instance.

DEAR ABBY: Every year for the past 16 years I have made Christmas dinner for "the family" at my home. I always have between 24 and 30, and I work very hard to make it nice.

My question: How long should I be expected to wait for late guests? My invitations read, "cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m."

This past Christmas a married niece and her husband arrived at 8 o'clock! (They are always anywhere from an hour to an hour and a half late.) The little ones were hungry and got restless, and the older ones drank too much, and my dinner was overcooked. Need I tell you how I felt?

Please answer this in your column as I am sure other hostesses have the same problem.

UPSET

DEAR UPSET: Start serving when you planned to. Guests will arrive on time if they know that the hostess will not wait for anyone. Your guests have trained you to wait for them. It's time you trained THEM to be on time!

DEAR ABBY: My 18-year-old sister has moved away from home and is sharing an apartment with another girl. If she decides to get married, is it my parents' responsibility to pay for the wedding?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Only if they want it.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Tuesday, Jan. 22, the 22nd day of 1974.

There are 343 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1901, an era came to an end in England with the death of Queen Victoria at the age of 82.

On this date: In 1517, Turkish troops captured Cairo. In 1528, England and France declared war on the Holy Roman Emperor, Charles V.

In 1917, President Woodrow Wilson proposed a League of Nations.

In 1957, George Metesky was arrested in Waterbury, Conn., and accused of being the "mad bomber" who had planted 32 bombs in the New York area over 16 years.

In 1962, foreign ministers of the 21 nations of the Organization of American States met in Uruguay to consider the threat of Cuba to the Western Hemisphere.

Ten years ago: The United States and Canada agreed on a power and flood development program for the Columbia River Basin in the Pacific Northwest.

Five years ago: The Soviet Union agreed to attend a U.S. parley on satellite communications as an observer.

One year ago: The 36th president of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson died at the age of 64.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana is 46. Actress Ann Sothern is 63.

Thought for today: Take the world as it is, not as it should be — anonymous.

State taxation change pushed

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's system of taxation penalizes property owners who want to make improvements and he wants to do something about it, says Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland.

The 30-year-old college instructor is pushing for passage this year of his bill providing a tax break for improvements of homes, apartment buildings and condominiums.

Van Meter claims his measure not only would permit a property owner to pay for improvements before he begins paying taxes on them, but also will serve as a stimulus for the state's economy.

"With the prospect of an economic slowdown, this could really stimulate Ohio's economy," the senator said. "When you stimulate the construction industry, it helps others like lumber, plasterers, glass manufacturers, and right on down the line."

Van Meter's bill provides that if a homeowner or the owner of a multi-dwelling building makes an improvement that would increase his valuation by $1,000, he could wait a year before starting to pay taxes on the improvement.

If the improvement were to cost

$2,000, then the delay would be for two years, and so on, up to a maximum for five years for an improvement that increased the owner's valuation by $5,000 or more.

"Our tax system penalizes people for improving their property when we should be offering incentives to encourage people to do such projects," the senator said.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, whose Ways & Means Committee is considering Van Meter's bill, said he agrees with its concept. "I think the principle has a lot of merit," he said.

Van Meter's bill was the first of an expected batch of measures to ease property taxes in view of higher than anticipated revenues from the state income tax.

Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, introduced a bill to increase the income levels that determine reductions under homestead property tax provisions for Ohioans 65 and over. A property owner could take a reduction of 70 per cent if his annual income was $3,000 or less, compared to the present $2,000, under Mottl's bill.

OEA wants impounded funds freed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Education Association says it wants the state to release $20 million in appropriated vocational education construction funds which it claims is being held as a buffer against the energy crisis.

In addition, the OEA asked for an additional $100 per child in state money for local school districts during the coming school year.

The General Assembly appropriated the funds last session with the stipulation it would be distributed only if there were enough state funds to cover it.

"Although revenues have been up, the funds have been held as a buffer against expected increased costs to the state because of the energy problem," said OEA President Donald L. Traxler.

A resolution adopted by the association's executive committee said a number of local school districts will be forced to request an increase in property taxes to cover inflation costs without the additional state funds. Meanwhile, state revenues have exceeded estimates in the first quarter of the biennium.

The resolution passed this week also said a "determination that the energy crisis is either less than anticipated or does not exist would decrease the need to buffer state revenues against decreases in revenues and increases in state costs."

Traxler said he will ask Gov. John J. Gilligan to determine the effects of the energy crisis on state expenditures, and then to release the money if it is available.

Winter back in mid-U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter returned to a broad stretch of the midcontinent today, producing freezing rain and snow in Kansas and Iowa and bringing travel advisories for snow eastward to the Great Lakes.

A heavy-snow warning was posted for the Colorado Rockies and northeastern Colorado. Many ski areas had reported inches or more of new snow through Monday.

Rain soaked parts of New England. Brunswick, Maine, had more than an inch overnight.

Fog slowed traffic in the Tampa, Fla., area and along parts of the Gulf Coast.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 1 at Ely, Nev., to 73 at Key West, Fla.

IF YOU'RE GOING TO CALL LONG DISTANCE DURING THE WEEK, WAIT A MINUTE.

You'll save money if you just hold off.

Until 5 P.M.

Because from 5 P.M. to 11 P.M. Monday through Friday, dial-it-yourself rates are low. (Even lower after 11 P.M. all day Saturday, and until 5 P.M. Sunday.)

They're so low you can dial an out-of-state call as far as California and talk a full 10 minutes for no more than $2.60 plus tax.

For example, call Dallas for $2.10. Or San Francisco, $2.60. Or Fort Wayne, $1.60. Or Boston,

$2.05. Or Miami, $2.10. For 10 relaxing minutes.

So the next time you go to make a long distance call during the week, wait a minute.

Check your watch first. And make sure it's after 5:00 P.M.

All rates plus tax.

USE YOUR PHONE FOR ALL IT'S WORTH.

Dial-it-yourself rates apply on self-dialed calls (without operator assistance) from residence and business phones anywhere in the U.S. (except Alaska) and on calls placed with an operator where direct dialing facilities are not available. Dial-it-yourself rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel guest, credit card, collect calls and on calls charged to another number.

Money Does Matter . . .

By Robert E. English

THERE'S MORE TO LIVING THAN JUST MAKING MONEY - REALLY!

In your family effort to save and spend within the limits of income, do not neglect life's little extra dividends - advancement, health, and recreation.

A saving and spending plan should provide for the personal advancement of each family member - through education, books, magazines, theatre, and other cultural activities.

Your health is very important. Have regular checkups and include planning which provides for unexpected dental, medical, and hospital care.

Once a year you owe yourself and your family a change of pace, a change of scene, some diversion, entertainment, recreation.

Plan for these things - save purposefully - and truly enjoy the rewards resulting from planning for better living.

Congratulations to:

Mr. and Mrs. I.L. (Roy) Booco of Jeffersonville, Ohio who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary January 19, 1974.

Kenny Campbell, of Landmark Feed, as being promoted to assistant superintendent.

One of the functions of a complete service bank is that of helping people - "individuals" - plan for their better living.

At The First National Bank of Washington Court House we are delighted to be of help - with no charge or obligation involved. It's our concern about your concerns!

Announces engagement

MISS CONNIE E. COCKERILL

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Cockerill, Rt. 2, Frankfort, are announcing the engagement of their daughter Connie Ellen to Steve B. Winegar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Heber B. Winegar, Rt. 3, Greenfield.

Miss Cockerill, a 1972 graduate of Adena High School, is now employed as a secretary for the Downtown Drugstore in Washington C.H.

Her fiancé, a graduate of McClain High School, is an aircraft technician. He is a civilian employe at Lockbourne AFB, Columbus.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Calling all bread-makers

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Now that there's a revival of home bread-baking in this country, cooks who want to learn the art or garner new recipes would do well to look into the recently published "Beard on Bread" by James Beard (Knopf). Introductions to the recipes add interesting and informative details as do Jim Beard's observations on the various kinds of flours, meals and additives, and on leavening, utensils and storage. How to choose appropriate breads in planning menus is a rundown I've never seen in any other book. The 100 or so recipes have stimulating variety:

For a sampling, we've chosen to offer you Rich Sour-Cream Coffee Cake from "Beard on Bread" because Jim says: "It's my favorite of all sweet breads. The apricot glaze gives it a superb color and sheen, and the flavor makes it a rich, delicious accompaniment to coffee or tea."

A note from our own testing. This recipe makes two coffee cakes and calls for baking them in 9-inch tube pans. A friend of mine and I each made a batch and successfully used four different kinds of tube utensils — an angelcake pan, a kugelhof mold, a plain bundt pan and a teflon-lined one. And a note about eating. These coffee cakes have a delightful, porous texture and taste particularly delicious, after glazing and cooling, fresh from the oven. So serve one the day you bake it and save the other for later feasting.

RICH SOUR-CREAM COFFEECAKE

For the Dough:
4 packages active dry yeast
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup warm water (100 to 115 degrees, approximately)
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup cold milk
1 cup sour cream
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
3 egg yolks
3 sticks (1½ cups) softened sweet butter
5 to 6 cups all-purpose flour

For the Filling:
2 tablespoons melted sweet butter
½ cup brown or white sugar mixed with 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ to ½ cup currants, presoaked, preferably in brandy, for 1 hour
¼ cup finely chopped nuts

For the Glaze:
1 one-pound jar apricot jam or preserves
1 tablespoon brandy, cointreau, or Grand Marnier

Dissolve the yeast and ¼ cup of the sugar in the lukewarm water in a large bowl. Stir in the remaining ¼ cup of sugar, salt, milk, sour cream, lemon juice, and vanilla and mix well. Add the egg yolks and blend. With your fingertips, rapidly work the butter into 5 cups of the four as you would for pie dough, to produce a dry, meal-like consistency. Add this to the yeast mixture and begin to knead in the bowl, adding more flour if necessary, to make a smooth, elastic dough. Turn out on a lightly floured board and knead 5 to 6 minutes. Shape into a ball and place in a lightly buttered bowl, turning to coat the surface with butter. Cover tightly and refrigerate to let rise for at least 4 hours or until doubled in bulk.

Wedding is announced Church Women United to meet on Friday

Mr. H.E. Kruger and Mrs. Opal J. Ault were married Jan. 12 by the Rev. Ralph Wolford in First Baptist Church. Their only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Yoakum.

Following a wedding trip they are residing at 6456 Prairie Rd.

On Sunday, a reception was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore, who were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Geesling. The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth, with pink candles encircled with pink and white roses. A wedding cake decorated with pink roses and white sugar bells centered the table.

The following guests attended the reception: Mrs. Ruth Clay, Mrs. Dora Willis, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Thompson,

Miss Lela Kruger, Mr. and Mrs. LeDroit Hodson, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Parrett, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Pursell and children Tricia and Tony, Mrs. Tessie Ault, Mrs.

Grace Hargrave, Miss Bertha Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Yoakum, Eddie Geesling and John Moore.

Church Women United to meet on Friday

The annual meeting of Church Women United of Fayette County will be held Friday at 1:30 p.m. in McNair Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Gerald Wheat will be guest speaker, and Mrs. Charles Wood will present devotions.

Reports will be presented by committee chairmen. Mrs. Edwin Thompson will be vocalist, and Mrs. John Case, organist. The nominating committee will be reported by Mrs. Willard Bonham, and Mrs. B.E. Kelley will be in charge of the installation of new officers.

A social hour will follow with the McNair Women in charge. Mrs. Charles Hurtt is president of CWU. Women from all of the churches in the area are cordially invited.

Youth Activities

NEW HOLLAND MYF

The New Holland Junior High MYF met in the church with Mrs. Shirley Tarbill, Mrs. Barbara Hecoax and Rev. Prentiss Spear in charge. Joyce Eggleton and Kathy Kirk led the devotions entitled "Friendship" and "Esther."

Mrs. Hecoax led group discussion on "What You See and Hear," concerning the mass media or radio, TV, newspapers and magazines, and the role each plays in lives, and the wisdom with which one must choose the right things for growing Christians.

Plans for future meetings were drawn. Dr. Sprouse of Circleville will be guest speaker at 7 p.m. Jan. 27. On Feb. 3, the group plans to attend the movie "Time to Run" at the Fayette Cinema; the Jeffersonville MYF has invited the New Holland group to be their guests at 6:30 p.m. on Feb. 24 the group will go bowling as a group at Bowland.

The devotions committee for Jan. 27 is composed of Chris Taylor and Rhonda Hecoax. Refreshments will be served by Terry Thompson and Joyce Eggleton.

The remainder of the evening was spent making and eating pizza. The eighth graders furnished the pizza and seventh grades the drinks.

SOUR-CREAM COFFEE CAKE — Made with yeast and glazed with apricot jam or preserves, this superb recipe comes from a new cookbook, "Beard on Bread" by James Beard.

Remove from the refrigerator, punch down, and turn out on a lightly floured board. (The dough can be kept in the refrigerator for as long as 3 days, in which case it should be punched down twice a day, until ready to roll out.)

Divide the dough in half, and roll out each piece into a rectangle about 10 by 14 inches. Brush each rectangle with melted butter, and sprinkle with the brown or white sugar and cinnamon. Over this sprinkle the drained currants and then the finely chopped nuts.

Gently press the filling into the dough with the rolling pin. Roll up from the wide end, jelly-roll 1 fashion. Heavily butter two 9-inch tube pans. Carefully fit the rolls into the pans so that the ends of the dough join. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven 45 to 55 minutes, until they are golden brown and give off a hollow sound when rapped with the knuckles. Let cool for 15 minutes in the pans, then invert on a rack. Meanwhile, melt the apricot jam over low heat. Add the brandy, Cointreau, or Grand Marnier, and blend.

Strain, and coat the sides and top of the cakes with the glaze while the cakes are still warm. Cool them thoroughly before slicing.

SAVORY GREEN PEAS
3 tablespoons butter
2 small onions, cut into thin strips
2 cans (each 6 ounces) sliced broiled mushrooms, drained
2 packages (each 10 ounces) frozen small green peas
In a medium skillet in the hot butter, cook onion, stirring often, until golden. Add mushrooms and cook a few more minutes. Cook peas according to package directions and drain; add onion mixture and reheat. Makes 8 servings.

Ex-guardsman tells of KSU incident

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A former member of the Ohio National Guard said he told a federal grand jury Monday that guardsmen were in danger when they confronted students during an antiwar demonstration at Kent State University May 4, 1970.

Charles W. Dodson of North Madison told newsmen he testified that the students were throwing rocks and that while the guardsmen were "not in danger of being killed, there was danger of bodily harm."

He said he was not hit by the rocks, "but I dodged a few of them."

Four students were killed and nine wounded by National Guard gunfire, which ended four days of demonstrations by Kent State students protesting U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

Dodson, 32, was a specialist fourth class in Company A, 145th Infantry, one of the units from which the shots came, but he said he wasn't among the guardsmen who fired.

He also said he testified that he didn't hear an order to fire but told newsmen, "That doesn't mean there wasn't one." He said he was on the end of the line of guardsmen and that "I heard the order to cease fire."

Dodson said he was one of the guardsmen who detained Terrence Norman, an undercover agent on the campus, after Norman turned his revolver over to campus police following the shooting.

There have been reports that Norman fired his gun, but Norman and police have denied that the weapon was fired. Dodson said he heard no comment from Norman one way or the other.

Norman was questioned by the 23-member grand jury early in its investigation but refused to discuss his appearance with newsmen.

Dodson, who sells real estate and drives a truck, said he left the National Guard about a month after the Kent State incident.

He was one of about six men who testified Monday as the jury began its fourth week of the probe. The others refused to identify themselves or discuss their appearances. An attorney said they were guardsmen and confirmed that they testified but declined to give their names to newsmen.

The National Guard was sent to Kent State by then-Gov. James A. Rhodes after a Reserve Officer Training Corps building on the campus was burned during a nighttime demonstration two days before the fatal confrontation.

A special Ohio grand jury called by Rhodes to investigate the shooting exonerated the guardsmen, finding that they had reason to believe their lives were in danger.

The 25 indictments the jury returned were dismissed later and a federal judge ordered the jury's report destroyed.

A presidential commission which investigated the shootings described them as "unnecessary, unwarranted and inexcusable."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation never made public a lengthy report on its probe of the incident.

The Justice Department ordered the federal grand jury probe late last year and the jury was convened Dec. 18. Department attorneys directing the investigation have declined to identify the witnesses called for discussion other aspects of the jury's proceedings.

DAVID C. SIX

Six, Looker elevated by 1st National Bank

David C. Six and David G. Looker were elevated to new positions Monday when the First National Bank board of directors held its annual reorganizational meeting. The first board meeting of the year followed the annual shareholders meeting.

Six, vice president and manager of the Washington Square office of the bank, was promoted to vice president and director of marketing. Looker, assistant vice president, was named to the position vacated by Six.

ALBERT R. Bryant was re-elected president of the board of directors, and other officers named were: Glenn R. Hemsworth, first vice president; J. William Wallace, executive vice president; Robert W. Tice, vice president and cashier; Robert E. Harper, assistant cashier; Robert E. English, loan officer; and Madeline D. Ebert, administrative officer.

Elected to the board of directors during the shareholders meeting were J. Roush Burton, Walter C. Driesbach, Jack M. Hagerty, Lowell M. Hayes, Emerson Marting, Jesse L. Persinger, Mark J. Schaeper, Edward C. Vollette, Hemsworth and Bryant.

Bryant told shareholders that the bank reached all-time highs in loans and total resources during 1973, making the year a satisfactory one.

Traffic Court

All of the traffic cases scheduled for Municipal Court Monday were filed by the Ohio Highway Patrol, all but three of which were speeding violations.

Pearl E. Self, Sr., 64, Old Springfield Rd., pleaded guilty to driving while his operator's license was under revocation and was fined $100 in addition to being sentenced to two days in jail by Judge Reed M. Winegardner.

Ronald D. Yahn, 39, Leesburg, forfeited bond of $62 when he failed to appear in court on a charge of driving an overloaded truck.

Billy G. Parrott, 37, Morrow, Ga., forfeited $25 bond on a charge of operating a tractor-trailer without a valid tax permit.

Persons scheduled to appear on speeding charges were:

Fined:
Harold T. Shelton, 19, Hillsboro, $27, and Randall Richardson, 28, Circleville, $12.

Eugene P. Brubach, 60, Cincinnati, $24; Loretta J. Jenkins, 26, Mount Sterling, $21; Richard A. Grondalski, 25, Greenbelt, Md., $31; Gary L. Corson, 31, of 723 E. Paint St., $21; Dale L. Cowman, 18, of 720 John St., $28; Otis C. Fredrick, 51, Hillsboro, $23; Patsy A. Darling, 40, of 1020 N. North St., $34; Lois A. Yahn, 38, of 703 Harrison St., $18.
Tony R. Sword, 21, of 706 Campbell St., $26; Larry W. Skelly, 26, Princeton, Fla., $21; Kim E. Martsoff, 18, South Bend, Ind., $18; James E. Porter, 35, Franklin, $27; Floretta Brown, 37, Mount Sterling, $24; and William H. Arthur, 37, of 4 Colonial Court, $24.

Officials probing apparent suicide

HILLSBORO — Highland County officials are still looking into the Saturday death of a man who apparently shot himself as he stood in front of his burning home.

Thomas W. Wood, 41, was found dead of apparently self-inflicted gunshot wound when volunteer firemen and sheriff's deputies responded to the fire call.

Coroner Dr. Paul W. Terrell Monday made a public plea for information about the dead man that might lead to locating relatives.

Wood's house was destroyed by the fire, along with a house trailer, an outbuilding, a van and most of his personal belongings. The home was located on Ohio 506, about two miles west of Carmel.

Charges dismissed in court hearings

Charges filed against two local men were dismissed at the request of the plaintiff in Municipal Court Monday. After reviewing the evidence, Judge Reed M. Winegardner deemed the requests for dismissal to be proper and assessed courts costs to the plaintiffs.

A charge of check fraud against Charles K. Tucker Jr., 38, of 932 Millwood Ave., was dropped when it was determined that the check was written by the defendant in good faith.

Larry E. Woods, 26, of 1024 Broadway, was cleared of a charge of criminal mischief when the judge ruled that the property damage which prompted the charge had been unintentional.

position of manager with the Piqua Chamber of Commerce. A two-year-old son, Michael, has joined the Montgomery family since they left Washington C.H. Montgomery and his wife, Sharon, now have three children, Keith, Nicki and Michael.

Former WCH Chamber manager accepts post in Springfield

PIQUA — George Montgomery, manager of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce from 1967-1969, and more recently manager of the Piqua Chamber of Commerce for the past four years, has accepted a position in Springfield, it was announced today.

Montgomery will soon join the Springfield Chamber of Commerce as manager of economic and industrial development. The 34-year-old Montgomery was approached by the Springfield Chamber in November concerning the newly-created position. His duties will include the development of a non-profit industrial park, supervision of a manufacturing safety program and general community improvement.

HE IS a 1956 graduate of Washington High School and had been employment supervisor with the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services in Washington C.H. for three years before becoming manager of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce in 1967, replacing Fred Blocher.

Montgomery had served as chief of rescue under the Civil Defense program here as well as being a volunteer fireman and special deputy sheriff.

He and his family left Washington C.H. in 1969 when he accepted the

More arms aid for Israel seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel's agreement to pull back its troops on the Suez front is virtually certain to bring some additional U.S. arms shipments to Israel.

No U.S. official has said so publicly, but it is known that the United States delayed major arms commitments to Israel while Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was working out a troop disengagement agreement between the Israelis and the Egyptians.

Israeli dependence on the United States for arms has given this country leverage to assure that the Israeli government would be cooperative, as one American official put it.

While some additional U.S. weapons are expected to flow to Israel in the wake of the Egyptian-Israeli agreement, the United States probably will be in no hurry to meet Israel's full arms requirements.

That is because some of the most complex and tough Arab-Israeli negotiations are yet to come, involving possible disengagement and withdrawal on the Syrian front and, beyond that, a permanent resolution of long-standing territorial questions in the Middle East.

Thus, there are indications the United States will want to keep its leverage on Israel for those difficult future negotiations. This could mean that arms shipments could be slowed again if the Israelis became balky.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has been here twice since the October war to push for U.S. approval of a long shopping list of planes, tanks, missiles, electronic equipment and other materiel.

The United States sent about $1 billion of military hardware to Israel during and after the 18-day war, mostly to replace battle losses. This equipment included more than 90 F4 Phantoms and A4 Skyhawk jets and several hundred tanks.

But Israel claims that it needs much more than that to regain a military balance with Egypt and Syria, whose armed forces reportedly have been rebuilt by Russia to greater strength than before the October war.

The additional Israeli arms request is said to total between $2 billion and $2.5 billion, but so far there has been firm U.S. Israeli agreement on only some of this request.

Congress has approved $2.2 billion for Israeli military aid, but President Nixon is required by law to justify to the House and Senate any commitment beyond $1.5 billion.

Meanwhile, there is no evidence the Russians have applied any comparable pressure on the Arabs to come to an accord with the Israelis and defuse the Middle East controversy.

U.S. intelligence officials say that Russian arms continue to move into Egypt and Syria.

Plans for AFS weekend here reviewed by adult chapter

Various reports, including the announcement of the annual American Field Service (AFS) weekend in March, were heard at a meeting of the Washington Senior High School AFS adult chapter Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Billie Wilson. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Harold Soldan.

Reports were read and Otis Hess, finance chairman, reported that the project he will head will bring next year's AFS student here, and also send an American abroad to his destination for the summer.

Don Gibbs and Mrs. Phillip French, Washington Senior High School coordinators of the chapter, reported activities when 60 students went carolling through the city and to four nursing homes, and the adult chapter provided snacks following the carolling tour. They also announced the AFS weekend to be March 22-23 for both Miami Trace High School and WSHS chapters. Students will arrive here on Thursday, and stay in various homes. A dance will take place in the Mahan Building on Saturday, when the group will be joined by Rotary Club students in the area as guests. William Pool is chapter chairman of the event.

John Nestor, AFS student president, announced that two meetings for adults will take place. The first one will be an assembly Jan. 28 at WSHS gymnasium, when Keith Stimpert will give a resume concerning his trip to Venezuela last summer, and the other for Feb. 25, also to be held in WSHS gymnasium, for both WSHS and MTHS chapters, when Miss Sheila Gordon and Fernando Martin will be guest speakers.

A nominating committee was appointed by Mrs. Soldan. Pool was appointed chairman, with Rollo Marchant and Billie Wilson. They will present a report of candidates for officers at the next meeting, March 4. Fernando Martin, John Nestor and Tim Morrow, of the WSHS student chapter, met with the above committee.

McKinley tops poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Canton McKinley continues to look as if 1974 is the year the Bulldogs shatter their Ohio high school basketball tournament hex.

Although they've drawn nothing but blanks at winning state tournament titles, the Bulldogs reached another Associated Press ratings milestone Monday.

McKinley, 12-0 this season, became the first school in either football or basketball ever to earn more than 300 points from Ohio sports writers and broadcasters.

The Canton power piled up 306 points, a whopping 162 ahead of Class AAA runnerup Kettering Alter, 12-0. The Bulldogs have led the big school ratings all three weeks of the 1974 AP poll.

The Canton power piled up 306 points, a whopping 162 ahead of Class AAA runnerup Kettering Alter, 12-0. The Bulldogs have led the big school ratings all three weeks of the 1974 AP poll.

The situation is far less stable in Class AA and A.

Akron Manchester led the Class AA ratings the first week, but yielded that honor this week to another unbeaten. Wellsville. Wellsville, 11-0, had 274 points to 267 for Manchester, 13-0 and second this time.

In Class A, Mansfield St. Peter's, which led the first week, regained the top spot from Sebring, the pacesetter last week. St. Peter's had 258 points while Sebring, 10-1, collected 237.

McKinley, in its luckless tournament bids, has reached the regionals or Sweet Sixteen 22 times, the semifinals 13 times and the championship contest on six occasions.

Boardman, upset by Youngstown Mooney, slipped one notch to third place in Class AAA. Springfield North was fourth, Chillicothe fifth, Dayton Dunbar and Cincinnati Elder tied for sixth, Warren Western Reserve eighth, Cincinnati LaSalle ninth and Hamilton Taft a new face in tenth.

In Class AA, Millersburg West Holmes jumped one spot to third, followed by Newark Licking Valley, Ashville Teays Valley, Canton Lehman, Columbus Mohawk, Waverly, Genoa and Louisville Aquinas.

Genoa, off to an 11-1 start, was the lone newcomer in the Class AA top ten.

In Class A, Canal Winchester, 10-1, joined the elite, replacing Peebles in the No. 10 spot.

Lorain Clearview maintained the third position and then, in order, came Gnadenhutten Indian Valley South, Sidney Lehman, Cleveland Lutheran East, Pittsburg Franklin-Monroe, Marion Pleasant and Greenwich South Central.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Here's how a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters rates Ohio high school basketball teams this week for The Associated Press (10 points for first to 1 point for tenth):

WFL draft under way in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Memphis was expected to select either Al America quarterback David Jaynes or running back Woody Green of Arizona State today as the No. 1 choice in the fledgling World Football League's draft of top collegiate prospects.

"I'm leaning toward Jaynes but am heavily considering Green," said Steve Arnold, head man of the Memphis franchise, on the eve of the 12-team league's first move into the domain of big league football which, until now, has belonged exclusively to the established National Football League.

After Memphis opened the draft, New England chose second and then Florida, Toronto, Birmingham, Ala., New York, Southern California, Philadelphia, Hawaii, Chicago, Washington, D.C., and Detroit chose in that order. For the second round, the order of selection was reversed, with Detroit choosing first.

Chicago indicated its top pick would be Bill Koller, a defensive tackle from Montana State. Owner Tom Origer said that Koller, selected Most Valuable Player in the Senior Bowl, has "expressed the desire to play for us here in Chicago."

The draft was set to last six rounds with 72 players being selected.

Marty Brenneman new voice of Reds

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Marty Brenneman, radio voice of the Virginia Squires for the past four years, has been named play-by-play announcer of the Cincinnati Reds, the National League club announced today.

A native of Virginia, Brenneman was selected over 200 applicants, including a number of veteran major league announcers, the Reds said.

Brenneman, 31, succeeds Al Michaels, who now heads the San Francisco Giants broadcasting team.

Vanderbilt routs Tennessee in 82-65 basketball clash

Patience is a virtue, and for Vanderbilt so is passing.

"Patience and passing were the key to our victory," said Vanderbilt Coach Roy Skinner following the seventh-ranked Commodores' 82-65 college basketball rout of Tennessee Monday night. "We took our time to see what they were doing and then attacked."

It took over half the game for Vanderbilt to size up Tennessee as the Volunteers sliced a seven-point half-time deficit to three points, 45-42, with 15:10 left. But then the Commodores went on a 13-2 scoring spree and Tennessee wasn't heard from again.

Sophomore Jeff Fosnes with 20 points and Jan van Breda Kolff with 18 did the most adjusting to the score, leading Vanderbilt to its 13th victory this season in 14 attempts.

In other action involving top twenty teams, ninth-ranked Alabama squeezed by Kentucky 81-77, Purdue

NUMBER ONE — Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley, right, and Ray Martin pull down the net as a sea of ecstatic Irish fans at South Bend after Notre Dame stopped UCLA 71-70.

"It's terrific" - Phelps

Notre Dame is No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — "We're very pleased to be ranked No. 1. It's terrific," said Notre Dame basketball Coach Digger Phelps Monday night. "But we can't afford to relax. We've still got 16 games ahead of us."

Phelps and the Fighting Irish, fresh from Saturday's thrilling, come-from-behind 71-70 decision over mighty UCLA, claimed the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press weekly poll today. It marked the first time in three years that the Bruins have been knocked out of the No. 1 position.

Whether or not the Irish can stay on top will depend largely on Saturday night's rematch against UCLA in Los Angeles.

Simpson, Maxwell winner

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Buffalo's O. J. Simpson was asked what he could do for an encore to his 2,003-yard record National Football League season of 1973.

"I hope to get my team to the playoffs," said the articulate 26-year-old former All-American from Southern California.

Simpson talked about himself and the Bills before accepting the Maxwell Award Monday night as the outstanding professional football player of the year.

"We came a long way this year. The Buffalo Bills had not had a winning season in about seven or eight years, and this year we won nine games and felt we should have won at least eleven," Simpson said.

Simpson shared the dias with Penn State's John Cappelletti, who was presented with the Maxwell Club's trophy as the outstanding college football player of 1973. It went along with his Heisman Trophy and All-American status.

Cappelletti is awaiting the Jan. 29 NFL draft to find out what next season has to offer the running back from Upper Darby, Pa., a Philadelphia suburb.

Simpson, who carried the ball 332 times for his 2,003 yards, became the second player to win both the pro and college Maxwell awards. He took college honors in 1968.

The Irish, 10-0, collected 36 first-place votes and 990 total points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters.

UCLA, which saw its record 88-game winning streak snapped, picked up 15 first-place votes and 944 points. The last time the Bruins dropped out of first place in the AP poll was Jan. 26th, 1971, following an 89-82 loss to Notre Dame. Marquette took over the No. 1 position that week, lost it to UCLA two weeks later, and it's been the Bruins ever since.

North Carolina State, 11-1, held onto the No. 3 position with victories over Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina-Charlotte. The Wolfpack picked up 782 points.

North Carolina, 12-1 after beating Wake Forest and Duke, moved up from fifth to fourth place with 651 points. Maryland, with wins over Navy and Fordham to go along with its loss to North Carolina State, dropped one place to fifth with 649 points and a 10-2 record.

Marquette, 14-1, held onto the No. 6 spot after dumping Butler and Fordham. Vanderbilt, 12-1, moved up one step to seventh after whipping Georgia and Auburn. ## Lion eighth graders post first victory of season

The Washington C.H. eighth grade marked their first win of the season Monday evening 40-37 over the Hillsboro Indians. Preceding the eighth grade game in Hillsboro the seventh grade clipped the Indians 36-35 and at the same time at the Washington junior high school the freshman were taking in on the chin 46-34, also to Hillsboro.

All year long the eighth grade have been sputtering but Monday evening the boys from the bench made the difference. Dennis Dunn playing his first game blocked six shots, Mark Belles made a timely basket in the first half, Dwane Six pulled down key rebounds and Devik Hargo came from the splinters in the fourth quarter to make four of five foul shots to put the Lions ahead.

In the seventh grade squeaker Fred Jones and Tim Upthegrove were high point men with eight counters apiece.

The freshman were headed by Sam McClendon with 14 points and Scott Johnson with 12.

Ball State coach ex-Cincinnati star

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Only a handful among the 4,560 fans sitting in utter disbelief in Ball State University's Men's Gym the other night knew the real drama behind the scenes.

Ball State whipped the University of Cincinnati, ranked 20th in the nation, 99-82.

The man working the miracle on the Ball State bench was Jim Holstein, a Cincinnati star in the 1950s who had sought the Cincinnati coaching job two years ago. Cincinnati selected Gale Catlett, an assistant coach from Kentucky.

Cincinnati had just fired Tay Baker, now coach at cross-town Xavier University.

Ironically, Ball State which had successfully courted Holstein away from St. Joseph in Indiana, was also dealing with Catlett.

"You know," said Ball State sports information director Earl Yestingmeier, "Gale Catlett was No. 2, our top choice after Jim Holstein."

"Listen," said Holstein, "I'd do anything in the world for the University of Cincinnati. I owe a lot to the university. It did a lot for me," said the Hamilton, Ohio native.

But Holstein said he was still incredulous about his interview with more fun games like that from now on," cautioned Coach Gale Catlett.

Cincinnati overwhelmed Northeastern Illinois in a tuneup for what Catlett sees as a pivotal test for the Bearcats.

Cincinnati, 12-4, travels to Drake, 10-5, Wednesday night and Catlett said: "We owe them something. They were the only team to beat us at home last year."

More important, he added, "we are in a position to make a run for a tourney bid and a victory over Drake could get us that momentum. That's what we're pointing for."

Elsewhere, Akron won its 10th game in 13 starts with a 77-68 victory over Buffalo (N.Y.) State, Wright State cruised past Cleveland State 69-45 and Urbana rallied to down Bluffton 82-73.

Cincinnati sprinted to a 14-0 lead against Northeastern Illinois and held a commanding 52-30 halftime spread. The lead swelled to 41 points in the second half as the Bearcats established a school record for most field goals in a game with 51.

Lloyd Batts' 24 points helped the senior guard move past exteammate Derrek Dickey as No. 5 on Cincinnati's all-time scoring list.

Wright State's Bill Fogt got in the scoring act too. His 21 points pushed the senior standout passed the 1,000 career mark—an unprecedented plateau at the school.

The victory lifted Wright State to 10-6. CSU fell to 5-11.

Akron, now 10-3, pulled away from a slim 39-34 halftime lead to a 20-point advantage before subs mopped up.

Akron, now 10-3, had to overcome a 12-2 deficit before taking control 39-34 at halftime. The Zips surged to a 20-point lead in the second half. Nate Barnett's 21 points led Akron.

Buffalo State dropped to 2-10.

Lynn Johnson's 23 points helped Urbana stage a second-half thrust to overtake Bluffton, which led 39-36 at halftime.

Cincinnati for the coaching job there.

"They asked me in," he said. "Bear in mind I already had been interviewed by three people at Ball State, the athletic director, the head of the physical education department and the administrator who was over both of them."

"I couldn't believe what I walked into at Cincinnati. There were 18 people in this room for the interview — at least 18, there may have been more. I counted 18.

"We talked for an hour and I was flabbergasted. Not once in the hour did anybody talk about the basketball program.

"I was asked questions like, 'Are you going to make the players cut their hair?' and, 'What about the players' social affairs?'

Lobstering 'good life', grandmother of 9 says

SOUTH THOMASTON, Maine (AP) — Elsie Iivonen, a grandmother nine times over, is one of Maine's few fulltime lobsterwomen. And, she says she believes in "Sisu".

The Finnish word for intestinal fortitude, "Sisu" is the name of the lobster boat
Elsie works with her husband,
Carl, 10 to 12 hours each day
during lobstering season.

Elsie, around 50, has been Carl's "sternman" for the last nine years.

"Some days it's like a vacation with pay because it's so beautiful," she said. "Other times, when it's horrible, it's hard work all day."

"I don't know what I'd rather do than lobster. It's a good life and I'm glad I can share it with my husband."

But the 5-foot-4 seafarer

says Carl, a Finn, has plenty of "sisu," and that means busy days on board. She works the rear deck, tending the main, and baiting and cleaning traps.

"We don't sit down all day
... but time goes by fast because we are so busy all the time," she said.

The traps are set two on a line. Carl picks up the buoy
and runs the line through the hauling gear, then slides the main trap down a washboard to Elsie.

Each measures their own catch, baits up, cleans the trap and plugs the powerful
"crusher" claw on the lobsters.

ELSIE SAID she started
stalking the tasty crustacean
about nine years ago in a 16-foot outboard boat. One of her daughters uses the same boat
now when she goes lobstering after school and during summers.

The fisherwoman said she finds it hard to talk about the natural beauties surrounding her livelihood.

"I think poetic thoughts, but
I don't have the words for them," she said. "You can't say them anyway or it sounds maudlin."

But she does cite some practical reasons for continuing her physically demanding occupation.

"It's one of the few businesses where you can still be your own master; the harder you work, the more you can make and the more satisfaction you get."

When will she quit?
"I keep retiring every night
... but I'll keep going on,"
she said.

It comes down to "sisu" for Elsie.

Farmers are cool to administration

CHICAGO (AP) —
Wallace's Farmer, a leading rural magazine, says that farm disillusionment with the Nixon administration is at an all-time high.

In an editorial by F.R.
Jimson, the magazine says polls show that less than one farmer in five thinks
President Nixon is doing a good job handling agricultural affairs. The confidence of eastern Corn Belt farmers in the President's handling of general economy is even lower at 15 percent.

"Supply shortages and the fear of government interference have added to the frustration and uncertainty," says Jimson.

Drills studded with hundreds of coarse diamonds are preferred for boring oil wells, because the bits do not have to be drawn up thousands of feet for frequent replacement.

Opening lead - ten of diamonds.

Bad luck is often a factor in the outcome of a hand, but there are cases where bad luck can be overcome by good management.

Here is a typical case. Let's say you're in six spades and West leads a diamond. At first sight the only loser appears to be a heart, but when you win the diamond with the king and play the ace of trumps, East shows out and your stock plummets sharply. Seemingly, the slam must go down one.

But if you have the proper attitude, you start to think in terms of how the hand can be made despite the foul trump break. And if you think about the matter hard enough, you come up with the right answer. The hand is not as hopeless as it looks, because there is a possibility of making the slam if the rest of the cards are well placed.

There is no way of escaping the trump loser, so you set your sights on avoiding the heart loser. It may require some luck to meet this goal, but if you don't buy a ticket you can't expect to win the raffle. What you do is pray that West was dealt the king of hearts and that you can eventually force him to lead from it.

In line with this, you cash the A-K of clubs and ruff a club. Next you cash the A-Q of diamonds and ruff a diamond. Finally you cash the K-Q of trumps and exit from dummy with a trump.

West is compelled to win the trump and, with only two cards left—the K-9 of hearts—he must lead one. It does not matter whether he plays the nine or the king—in either case you lose no heart tricks and make the slam.

Ever hear of Mathew B. Brady? Well, he was the photographer who covered America's Civil War. You take a look at this guy's pix and you marvel. Quality was there. And that was some time back. Even Dale Wade wasn't around in those days. But from those early days up to today the better photographers were vitally concerned with how their stuff was processed. And for good reason, this is that quality factor, the "racer's edge". Today's photographer who is shooting Kodak film demands Kodak processing if he's where he can get it. Keep that in mind.

Now there is another processor that will give you precious pictures that "tender loving care." That is you, yourself. Ever think of doing your own color slide processing? More and more local people are getting into the act. It's fun! We have the little inexpensive color slide processing kits here at the shop and they're becoming more and more popular. Think about it. This might be right up your alley. Come in and we'll show you what you have to get to get into the color slide processing business.

Antihistamines Not Dangerous

Can antihistamine drugs be taken indefinitely without causing any harm?

Miss J.N., Wis.

Dear Miss N.:

Let me first explain that histamine is a substance produced in many tissues and cells in the body. It plays an important role in body growth, secretions in the stomach, and in the blood circulation.

Excess amounts of histamine are found in the blood of people with asthma, hives, hay fever, and other allergic conditions.

Antihistamine drugs were created to counteract the excess histamines in allergic people, and thus reduce their annoying symptoms.

These antihistamine drugs are readily excreted from the body in the urine. It is for this very reason that sustained doses are effective.

Nevertheless, I do believe that a re-evaluation of your allergic profile should be done. Perhaps the exact offender that produces your year-round allergy may be found and removed. Then you would be spared the need for such constant medication.

Does nicotinic acid have any relation to the nicotine in cigarettes?

Mr. H.G., N.Y.

Dear Mr. G.:

No, there is no relationship. Nicotinic acid, or niacin, is a valuable vitamin found mostly in liver, meat, fish, yeast, and whole grain cereals.

Its complete absence in the diet is responsible for the disease pellagra.

The nicotine in cigarettes is a poisonous substance found in all parts of the tobacco plant.

I saw a report of acid in my urine. Does this have any special meaning?

Mr. E.S., Va.

Dear Mr. S.:

The acid and alkaline content of the urine may vary from day to day, even with people in excellent health.

Changes in diet and some medicines can readily alter the acidity of the urine.

Peregrine falcon losing ground, survey discloses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The peregrine falcon, one of the most noble birds of prey, is on the skids. A recent survey under the auspices of the Interior Department and the World Wildlife Fund found only three young birds in 14 nests that might have had 40 to 50 fledglings under normal conditions.

The chief trouble was that DDT and kindred pesticides, taken in by the falcons with their food, caused them to lay thin-shelled eggs which did not hatch. This is true also, the experts say, of other birds of prey.

Another hazard for the birds is the sudden revival of falconry as a sport. Some devotees capture young birds in the wild despite federal and state laws.

On the other hand, four pairs of peregrines in captivity at Cornell University raised 20 young birds last spring.

Middle school proposal

with one or more teachers covering a subject area rather than a course. Math and science, which are so closely related and interdependent, can be taught simultaneously. Literature, which should be studied in context with the period and location in which it was written, can be combined with a social studies course so that repetitious material might be avoided.

In addition a greater relevance may be seen by the student in some areas where the usefulness of a course can become rather obscure. Division has little intrigue for a student if it is demonstrated as an end in itself, but if it can be taught in immediate contact with the science problems which require a knowledge of division, the student will be much more apt to become interested.

IF REDUNDANCY can be held to a minimum, time can be used more efficiently and new courses, especially those which are oriented to student interest, can be offered as electives.

Ben Roby, junior high principal, who is most directly affected by the proposal is perhaps its staunchest advocate. He is constantly working with students who are "turned off" by the present system, and most strongly senses the need for a more interesting and challenging atmosphere in the middle age level.

Two additional pluses for the proposal are expanded facilities for physical education on the sixth grade level and elimination of a major problem with freshmen who fail one or two courses.

Freshmen who fail one or two of their four subjects have a unique problem, he said. They cannot repeat the course they failed if they move on to the senior high because the course isn't offered there. On the other hand, if they stay at the junior high, they are unable to take the sequel courses to those they passed.

Hugh Rea, elementary coordinator, favors the change because it will ease over crowding some of the elementary schools and might allow for the closing of Sunnyside Elementary School. It has been estimated that closing the school could save up to $25,000 per year for the school system.

Fred Jones, principal at Washington Senior High School, voiced the only reservations to the proposal. He will be most affected by the loss of some of the flexibility which is now enjoyed at high school level. He also wondered how the freshmen would react to the high school environment.

No one can predict exactly how anyone will react to a change in their routine, but the feeling was that the proposal would prove very advantageous.

According to Roby, the program will offer a gradual change in curriculum so as not to overly disturb what the student now expects. "It will be a period of discovery and adjustment for both the students and the faculty. Although some things may not work as well as we hope, we can evaluate them and discard those which prove unnecessary. In the long run we should be able to offer much more than we are offering him now," he said.

THE MINI-WORKSHOP program approved for the senior high will consist of a variety of student interest seminars to be offered the afternoon of Feb. 14. The program is designed to expose students to interests and hobbies in which they might become involved.

The program grew from the enthusiasm of four student representatives to a recent seminar dealing with some of the social difficulties encountered by young adults. The theme of the seminar was that students who become involved in fruitful activities find life more enjoyable.

Students of Washington Senior High School have been asked to participate in the Channel 10 quiz show "In the Know." Three faculty members have become interested in preparing the students for the program, and the board approved the school's request to participate. They are scheduled to oppose Columbus Wehrle.

Some of the offerings for the workshop will be karate, scuba diving, ham radio operation and gourmet cooking.

Troy man raises three top hogs at breeder show

Don Gostonsky, of Troy, raised three of the top-selling hogs in Monday afternoon's Ohio Hampshire Swine Breeders Association sale at the Fayette County Fairground.

Gostonsky's bred gilt brought $600 from Bruce Balduff, North Fairfield. That price was higher than the $500 paid for the champion bred gilt, which was consigned by Larry Leffel, New Knoxville, and purchased by Ray Obermyer, Hamilton.

The champion open gilt and the champion boar were also sold by Gostonsky, the former for $400 to Ronald Fielitz, West Unity, and the latter to Allen Kesterm, West Salem, for $320.

The total for 57 hogs sold at the sale was $14,900. Thirty bred gilts brought an average of $342; five registered open gilts were sold for an average of $278; 14 commercial open gilts brought $122 on the average; and eight boars sold for an average of $200 each.

The national committee has new offices, a larger staff and is planning to spend more than $1 million in 1974. It has established a newsletter with a pilot edition that went to 800,000 persons.

Lader says his group, the largest pro-abortion organization, will be lucky to raise $60,000 in the next six months.

Right to Life groups are supporting a constitutional amendment sponsored by Sen. James L. Buckley, R-Con. N.Y., and now pending before a Senate subcommittee. The proposal would extend the Constitution's protection for "persons" to "all human beings, including their unborn offspring, at every stage of their biological development, irrespective of age, health, function or condition of dependency."

The amendment would effectively ban most abortions, but it contains a clause that would allow one if medically necessary to save a woman's life.

Ten states have passed laws specifying who is qualified to perform abortions, at what stage of pregnancy and on what grounds. They are Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, and Utah.

Driver cited after hit-skip accident

City police reported another hit-skip accident and a minor parking lot accident in which a Washington C.H. man was charged with leaving the scene.

The Wilmington post of the Ohio Highway Patrol reported a minor accident to report in which a Fayette County boy was cited for failure to yield right of way.

Slight damage was reported to a car owned by Faith Baker, 19, of 605 Washington Ave., when it was struck by a hit-skip vehicle while parked in front of the Baker residence, sometime Monday, police reported.

An accident in the Borden Burger parking lot on Columbus Avenue, at 9:51 p.m., Friday, between cars driven by Charles D. Noble, 34, Williamsport and Monte C. McConkey, 17, of 1139 Gregg St., did slight damage to the Noble car and moderate damage to the McConkey car.

McConkey was cited by police for leaving the scene of an accident.

An accident occurred at the intersection of U.S. 35 and Old Palmer Road at 7:23 p.m., Monday, the Wilmington post of the Ohio Highway Patrol reported.

Cars driven by Charles T. Hiser, 49, of Milledgeville, and Danny L. Davey, 16, of 5102 Ohio 41-N, collided, causing slight damage.

Davey, who claimed a parked semi trailer truck obstructed his view of oncoming traffic, was cited for not yielding right of way.

Solons eye public works

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public works and health were the subjects of congressional action Monday as the second session of the 93rd Congress got underway.

The Senate also began considering energy legislation, but no votes are expected until later in the week.

A bill authorizing $533.2 million to deal with crib deaths and alcoholism, to overhaul federal programs for health statistics and to aid medical libraries was approved by the House.

The Senate overwhelmingly rejected a plan to cut 10 water projects from a $1.28 billion public works bill.

The reduction proposed by Sen. James L. Buckley, Con-R-N.Y., was beaten 71 to 9.

Consideration of the public works bill is to continue with eight amendments to be acted upon before the final vote.

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Fern Bietman, 55, of Groesbeck, died Monday when flames engulfed her two-story home, police said.

An investigation is continuing, according to fire authorities.

No cause was immediately determined. There was no damage estimate.

Pre-sentence reports pushed

to require pre-sentence reports on convicted felons.

Rep. Edward J. Orlett, D-34 Dayton, got the bill through the House, 53-40, early this month after surviving a floor fight that almost sent it back to committee.

One main objection was that the bill, even if meritorious, would be another financial burden imposed by the state on the counties with no way of paying for it.

"Here we go again," complained Rep. James Thorpe, R-50 Alliance, "telling the counties they have to do something with money they don't have. It's wrong, even if this is a good idea, and I'm not so sure it isn't."

Orlett's noted that many courts in the state already are using pre-sentence reports, and contended the effects would not be widespread.

He said "I believe such reports will permit better rehabilitation of offenders by carefully matching them with the programs and facilities that are available," Orlett said.

Under the bill, the reports would have to contain information relating to the circumstances of the crime, the defendant's history, possible rehabilitation resources available to the defendant, and physical and mental examinations of the defendant.

Orlett said all such reports would be confidential, available only to the sentencing court, or later, to an appellate court, the prosecuting attorney and defense counsel, and the department or institution to which the defendant is committed.

To provide time for preparation of the report, courts would be authorized to commit the defendant up to 60 days while the information is being gathered. That time would be credited against any sentence later imposed.

The 40-year-old Dayton Democrat said the legislation allows counties to enter into contracts with the Ohio Department of Corrections to provide investigations and the actual pre-sentence reports.

"The state corrections system is working hard to provide effective rehabilitation programs for offenders. This legislation is aimed at helping the corrections system do an even better job," he said.

86 teens, teachers at Prayer Breakfast

"How To Approach God" was the topic during the meditation period for the 86 teens and teachers attending the Prayer Breakfast at the South Side Church of Christ this morning. The parable that Jesus told about the Pharisee and the Publican was told by Charles J. Richmond, minister.

There were four teachers present; 12 juniors; 20 sophomores, and 38 freshmen.

David Bryan, senior at WSHS, brought the student devotional on "Friendship." He said, "Everyone can have God as a friend."

Mrs. Patty Cox dismissed the group with prayer.

Board to seek bids on hospital vehicle

The Fayette Memorial Hospital authorized seeking of bids for a hospital vehicle and reviewed some recent hospital inspections Monday night in a short meeting.

Hospital Administrator Robert L. Kunz was authorized to seek bids for a staff vehicle, probably a van. It would be used for maintenance, running errands and other hospital business.

Kunz commended the maternity unit, which passed a recent state inspection without a single violation. It was the first violation-free inspection of the maternity section in 24 years.

ANOTHER STATE inspection reviewed dealt with hospital utilization.

In other routine matters, the board approved minor changes in their rules and regulations for medical staff privileges and approved two reap-plications for such privileges.

Kunz reported 306 admissions and 328 discharges during December. Inpatient days totaled 1,888. The average daily census was 60.90. There were 52 births and 196 newborn patient days were recorded. Ten people died at the hospital during the month.

The hospital was 70 per cent full during the month, and medical and surgical patient facilities were 78 per cent full. The average length of stay per patient was 5.75 days, and it was 6.72 days for medical and surgical patients, below the national average.

There were 685 X-rays taken, 4,037 laboratory tests, 971 emergency room visits, 282 physical therapy treatments, and 613 inhalation therapy treatments. Major operations totaled 52 and minor operations amounted to 73.

Federal funds committed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Housing and Urban Development Secretary James T. Lynn says $6.6 billion in federal funds will be committed in 1974 to stimulate the slumping home building industry.

The money will be used to guarantee construction of 200,000 housing units at a belowmarket interest rate to the consumer of 7¼ per cent, Lynn told the National Association of Home Builders on Monday.

Lynn also said the maximum interest rates for FHA and VA-insured mortgages were being cut from 8½ to 8¼ per cent, effective today.

Lynn said the interest rates could be reduced even further:

Former AEC chairman Strauss dies

CULEPER, Va. (AP) — Funeral services for Rear Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and interim secretary of commerce, will be Thursday in New York.

Strauss, 77, died at his farm here Monday after returning from Washington where he had undergone treatment for cancer.

Strauss was a native of Charleston, W. Va., and during his life served as an adviser to five presidents. He helped spur development of the hydrogen bomb, and was a well-known financier.

He served as a private secretary to Herbert Hoover in 1919 and later became a partner in a New York banking firm.

In 1941 he was ordered to active duty in the Navy as a lieutenant commander and soon rose to the position of special assistant to the vice chief of naval operations. In 1946 he was named to the Atomic Energy Commission.

In 1958 President Eisenhower gave Strauss the interim appointment as commerce secretary, but his nomination to the post full-time was defeated in Congress.

Hijacked plane lands in Havana

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia (AP) — A hijacked Colombian airliner with 18 persons aboard was believed to have landed early today in Havana.

Commandeered by an armed young Ecuadorian, the four-engine Vickers Viscount turboprop was due in the Cuban capital about 1 a.m. EDT after a 1,000-mile flight across the Caribbean. Havana Radio made no announcement of the plane's arrival, but since there was no word that it had crashed or was missing, it was assumed it got there.

Officials of Aeropesca, a domestic Colombian airline, said 42 other passengers and a crew of four were aboard the plane Monday when Jorge Raimundo Tapia Canon took it over on a flight between Pasto and Popayan, both in southwest Colombia.

Oil leasing increase set by Morton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton wants to multiply offshore oil leasing to top times its 1973 rate within the next few years.

Morton also said in an interview that his department would get more than $50 million for coal-production research in fiscal 1975 to start a rapid expansion of coal research.

Although his department has been overshadowed by the new Federal Energy Office, Morton said it was still Interior's "massive responsibility" to increase the nation's coal, oil and gas resources.

In 1973, Interior leased around one million acres of federal offshore areas for oil and gas development, and Morton had planned to increase the leasing rate to three million acres a year by 1978, a department spokesman said.

Now, Morton said in the interview, he expects the rate to reach that three-million-acre mark this year, then perhaps jump to five million in 1975 and soar to ten million acres per year "for a couple of years thereafter."

Morton also said that he wants to begin consideration of a joint U.S.-Canadian pipeline for natural gas from the Arctic, and he suggested he might invite himself along on a visit planned by energy chief William E. Simon to Canadian energy minister Donald McDonald.

Goldwater sees tough time for Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater says he has a private poll showing that Watergate will cause a 10 per cent loss of votes for all Republican candidates this year.

He said that without a virtually magic change for the better, the loss will be enough to spell the wholesale defeats for GOP candidates for governor and the Senate and House.

"I want to tell you it's going to be goddamned tough for any Republican to get re-elected, including myself, and I look in pretty good shape," the Arizona Republican said in an interview.

Goldwater said that, as late as two months ago, his polls showed Watergate disclosures hurting Democrats as much as Republicans in a kind of general public disgust with all politicians.

"Now the poll indicates Watergate is going to hurt only Republicans," he said.

"We'll lose in the Senate, no question about it," Goldwater said. In the course of a pessimistic political analysis, he said the GOP is beginning its campaign for Senate seats by losing three, and perhaps four, "sure bets" through retirement and resignation.

Goldwater said he has seen no evidence to indicate that President Nixon should either be asked to resign or be forced to face the impeachment process.

But he said that, if Mr. Nixon were to step aside, Vice President Gerald R. Ford is the best possible person to succeed him.

Goldwater said the true dimensions of the problem facing Republican candidates are made up of the Watergate disclosures, Nixon's 27 per cent standing in national polls, and the chances that both the economy and the energy crisis could worsen.

"I can sense a strong feeling right here on the hill, and you're going to see it more and more as weeks go on, that many Republican members of Congress would like to run this year without Mr. Nixon," Goldwater said. Goldwater said the poll was prepared by pollster Richard Wirtline of Anaheim, Calif.

The substantial Republican losses foreshadowed by the Wirtline poll will not be reversed "unless things take a decided turn for the better," Goldwater said.

Such a reversal would have to include "a very, very obvious and successful" solution to the Middle East problem and a quick and complete solution to the energy crisis, "so that we would never again have to depend on foreign sources of energy," he said.

"You're not going to get people voting for Republicans just because we don't have a recession or we don't increase unemployment," Goldwater said.

"These things have to be of such magic that people will forget Mr. Nixon's problems."

Energy vote being pushed in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders say they are likely to move by Wednesday to force a vote on emergency energy legislation stalled by a controversy over excess profits earned by the oil industry.

A vote could come as early as today, Senate leaders said.

Word of plans to head off an anticipated filibuster by Republicans and senators from oil-producing states came as Senate investigators quizzed oil company executives on whether the energy crisis is real or contrived.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee, on Monday asked representatives of the seven leading oil firms how shortages could exist when their own figures show fuel inventories running more than 5 per cent above last year's levels.

Members of the panel of oil executives pointed out that shortages also occurred last year and attributed this year's increased levels to warmer than normal weather and public conservation efforts. Harry Bridges, president of Shell, predicted "acute shortfalls in the next few months in all products."

Citing the record profits reported by many oil companies last year, Sen. James B. Allen, D-Ala., said "It would seem actually that the oil companies never had it so good."

Z.D. Bonner, president of Gulf Oil, responded that the "matter of profits is greatly misunderstood," arguing that his company needed a rate of return of 12 to 15 per cent in order to have adequate incentive to explore for new sources of oil.

Figures presented to a House subcommittee last week showed that profits of the top five oil companies were 48.6 per cent higher in the first nine months of 1973 than the same period in 1972.

The oil executives told Jackson's subcommittee that despite the recent high profit levels, oil industry profits were no higher than other industries measured over a five-year period. "You have years when you are up and years when you're down," Roy A. Baze, senior vice president for Exxon said.

The question of oil industry profits is said to be the chief roadblock in the way of passage of the emergency energy bill that would give President Nixon authority to order gasoline rationing and enforce energy conservation measures that are now voluntary.

The Senate resumed debate on the bill Monday, but Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., indicated he intended to resume the filibuster that prevented passage of the measure before Congress adjourned last month.

Employee contributions required

National health program disclosed by President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has outlined to key congressmen a proposed national health care plan based principally on private insurance purchased by employers and employees.

It would be designed so that no individual or family after paying a share of the premium would be liable for more than $1,500 a year for the broad range of health services covered by the policy, even in the case of catastrophic illnesses.

Employers would be required to offer the coverage to employees. After a transition period employers would have to pay 75 per cent of the premium, which was estimated to average $625 for a family and $250 for an individual per year.

There would be a separate government program for low-income families, regardless of their work status, non-working families and those with unusually high medical risks.

Medicare, the Social Security health plan for the aged, would continue with generally the existing cost to the beneficiaries, but with expanded benefits. Medicaid, the federal-state program for low-income persons, would largely be absorbed into the new government plan.

The draft proposal was outlined to the House Ways and Means Committee at a closed session Monday with Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger. Some details became available afterward. The plan still is subject to modification before its formal presentation to Congress, scheduled for next month.

One major unsettled area is the financing of the public segment of the plan. It was estimated to require $5.9 billion of added federal spending and

Prospects for enactment of the plan

this year are doubtful. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, where such legislation must originate, said that group might be able to begin work on national health programs if it finishes consideration of tax reform legislation by June.

The proposal also faces the rivalry of the all-government health plan being pushed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and others.

Sixth, ninth grades to move

School restructure OK'd by city board

By GEORGE MALEK

In a consensus opinion, the Washington C.H. City Board of Education indicated Monday night that school administrators should proceed in their plans to reorganize the city schools through the creation of a middle school. Under the proposal for the 1974-75 school year, the sixth graders would be relocated in the Junior High School building and freshmen would attend Washington Senior High School.

Innovation has become the keynote of education in the Washington C.H. city schools during the past year as school officials are intently trying to keep the system in abreast of changing society.

IN ADDITION to the introduction of the middle school concept, a mini-workshop program will be tried for the first time at the high school level. Approval of the mini-workshop was granted by the board during part of the lengthy meeting which covered a variety of items on the agenda.

Statistically, the junior high school student has been the most disenfranchised with the public educational system. Most of the "high school dropouts" become apathetic or antagonistic toward school during these middle years which suggests that this area should receive a number one priority from school administrators.

The middle school concept, which has been instituted in a number of other systems, attempts to be a transitional medium between the confines of elementary school and latitude of the high school. In this area, the traditional

"junior high school" has been a rather outstanding failure.

The junior high takes away the highly personal contact of the elementary without substituting enough challenge or interest to compensate for what has been lost.

The middle school attempts, through innovative teaching techniques, to enhance the curriculum of the sixth, seventh and eighth graders so that their interest in school will not be stifled.

Block course and team teaching are two techniques often used in the middle school. Instead of having students change classrooms and teachers for each course, the courses are combined.

Community education head employed for program here

The City Board of Education approved Monday evening the employment of Todd (Hank) Shaffer, for the position of community education director. Shaffer, 22, will be responsible for the organization and implementation of a community education program for the Washington C.H. area.

He is a graduate of the University of Illinois where he majored in park and recreation administration, and recently completed work in Danville, Ill., where he was a staff member with the recreational department and was largely responsible for the initiation of a community education program.

Included in his background for the position is a summer spent in Scotland where he directed a summer activities program.

Shaffer, who was recently married, to his wife, Betty, will be moving here soon.

He was one of 10 persons interviewed for the directorship and seemed by far the most qualified to establish a new program. Ball State University, a leader in community education, highly recommended Shaffer for the job.

COMMUNITY education is a catch-all for community involvement in recreational, educational, and hobby-type activities. It is designed to offer area residents on alternative to television mania and arguing with members of the family.

In its advanced stages a community education program offers those in the community, young and old, an opportunity to pursue their special interests and to create new ones.

The initial form of the program in Washington C.H. is likely to be a more comprehensive summer recreational program. In the fall, school facilities will be available for some hobby-centered seminars.

Although the Mott Foundation has contributed $2,000 to help fund the program and local sponsors have help with monetary gifts, the responsibility for maintaining the program will fall on, not through taxation, but through a belief that the program is of benefit to the residents.

Even though the program should be self-sufficient in a developed stage, additional funds will be most appreciated at the onset to hasten the progress of specific proposals. The funds for the project are in an account at the Washington Savings Bank, and contributions may be made there.

Red Chinese expanding?

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — The South Vietnamese government said today that the Chinese task force that drove Vietnamese forces from the Paracel islands last weekend may be preparing to head for the Spratly chain farther south.

American sources, however, said they had no indication that the task force was moving south. Observers in Taiwan also doubted such a move would be made.

The Spratly archipelago is 270 miles from the South Vietnamese coast in the South China Sea and about the same distance from the Philippines and Malaysian Borneo. It is claimed by South Vietnam, Communist China, Nationalist China, the Philippines, Malaysia and Singapore — "a can of worms," said one American source.

Informed sources said South Vietnam recently established an outpost in the Spratlys, which like the Paracels consist of uninhabited coral reefs and atolls. But also like the Paracels, there is belief there might be oil there.

South Vietnam today sent a note to the members of the Paris Conference on Vietnam protesting the Chinese move into the Paracels.

Abortion ruling still controversial

NEW YORK (AP) — One year and an estimated 800,000 abortions later, the controversy still rages over the U.S. Supreme Court decision that struck down most laws prohibiting abortions.

Anti-abortion groups are pressing for a constitutional amendment that would nullify the decision. In 10 states, they have succeeded in obtaining laws that limit the circumstances under which abortions may be performed.

Their success has begun to worry those who regarded the court decision as a long-needed reform.

"It's a very serious situation and we are considerably worried about these anti-abortion moves," Lawrence Lader, chairman of the National Abortion Rights Action League, said in an interview.

"We were caught short by the success of the opposition's efforts," he said. "It's hard for people to realize that it is possible for a Supreme Court decision to be overturned."

The court decision, issued a year ago today, said that state laws prohibiting abortion in the first three months of pregnancy were unconstitutional. Abortions after the first three months were declared legal but subject to state regulation.

At the time, an estimated one million women a year had been undergoing illegal abortions in secret, often under conditions that endangered their health. In the year since, the Population Council estimates that 800,000 women have had abortions under supervised medical care in hospitals and clinics.

Opposition to the abortion decision is spearheaded by the National Right to Life (Please turn to page 14)

Ohio GOP having trouble filling election ticket

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chief Justice C. William O'Neill will seek reelection this year instead of stepping down as previously announced, he said, Monday.

His announcement came in the form of a one-sentence news release only hours after his son, State Rep. Charles William O'Neill, R-28 Columbus, bowed out of the race for the GOP nomination for attorney general.

In other developments in an increasingly shaky attempt by Republicans to mount a state ticket for the May primary, Sen. Paul E. Gillmor, R-2 Port Clinton, said he had decided not to try for the GOP nomination for state auditor.

The younger O'Neill and Gillmor had been part of a "consensus" ticket recommended last week by the Republican State Executive Committee. They were described as the best potential candidates for those offices by State GOP Chairman Kent B. McGough.

Although Gillmor and the younger O'Neill mentioned a lack of money as major reasons for their decision, McGough said it was not the only reason. "Each of them made the decision independently and for different reasons," the chairman said.

The chief justice, without fanfare, issued a press release Monday afternoon that said simply: "I am going to be a candidate for re-election as chief justice of the Ohio Supreme Court." His pronouncement several weeks ago that he was going to retire came just as succinctly. O'Neill stresses that as a jurist, he cannot campaign while sitting on the bench.

However, when he first decided to retire, the former governor and one-time speaker of the House was quoted as saying he would not run again because of a possible conflict of interest if his son were to be elected attorney. His son's decision removed that possibility.

Already beleaguered GOP officials now apparently are left with a "consensus" ticket that includes Cleveland Mayor Ralph Perk for U.S. Senate,

President sets State message

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will deliver his State of the Union address before a joint session of Congress and a nationwide broadcast audience at 9:30 p.m. EDT Jan. 30.

The White House and congressional leaders announced the scheduling Monday. Nixon originally arranged to give the address at 12:30 p.m. EDT Jan. 29, then changed it to 8:30 p.m. EDT that day at the suggestion of Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

Tank truck destroyed by flames

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP) — Columbiana County sheriff's deputies said an Ashland Oil Co. truck was destroyed in an early-morning fire near Calcutta north of here as trucker protests in the area continued.

Deputies said they were investigating the fire and said they had not determined whether it was strike-related.

Two rural fire departments had to be called to extinguish the blaze, first reported about 1 a.m.

The fire came several hours after the Ohio Highway Patrol reported discovering nails spread on emergency crossover lanes on Ohio 11, not far from where the tanker truck was destroyed.

Truckers, supporting the proposed nationwide shutdown Thursday in protest to high fuel rates and lack of adequate freight rate increases, have been gathering in the East Liverpool area and several area truckers began a stoppage at midnight Saturday.

The patrol said that no damage was caused by the nails and it was not determined who scattered them.

About two dozen truckers spent Sunday night along the East Liverpool portion of the highway, building fires and occasionally attempting to flag down passing truckers, observers said.

former Gov. James A. Rhodes for governor, and Lt. Gov. John W. Brown and Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, both for re-election.

Supreme Court Associate Justice Paul W. Brown had been given the nod for chief justice based on the incumbent's decision not to run. It is not known if that party choice would stick, or even if Justice Brown would choose to take on the popular O'Neill in the GOP primary. Probably not, party spokesmen calculated.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, skipped over by the executive committee in his bid for lieutenant governor, said Monday he is keeping "all of my options open, including a race for governor or U.S. senator."

"In this crazy year . . . who knows, by next week, there may be no one left on the consensus ticket," the Cincinnati attorney said.

McGough said Republicans will continue to search for consensus candidates for the vacated spots. Four others have indicated interest in the auditor's post, he said. He didn't give names, but Rep. Sam Speck, R-95 New Concord, has said privately he might be interested in running for auditor, as has Montgomery County Commissioner Thomas Cloud.

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Adelaide R. Wallace

Mrs. Adelaide R. Wallace, 90, of Washington C.H., died at 2 p.m. Monday after two years of ill health. She had been seriously ill for the past 10 days.

Born in Good Hope, Mrs. Wallace was a school teacher here for 12 years before moving to Cleveland. She returned here 26 years ago. She had been married to S.J. Wallace, who died in 1958.

Mrs. Wallace is survived by one son, J.W. Wallace, Bloomingburg-New Holland Rd.; one daughter, Mrs. Bruce (Marilou) Yates, Deerfield Beach, Fla.; three sisters, Mrs. Lucy Yerian and Mrs. Doris Wilson, Good Hope, and Mrs. Helen Adams, Chillicothe; six grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Private services will be held in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, with the Rev. Gerald Wheat officiating. Burial will be in Good Hope Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 3 until 5 p.m. and from 7 until 9 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Ralph T. Wallace

NEW HOLLAND — Mrs. Beatrice Wallace, 58, Williamsport, died at 2:30 a.m. Tuesday at her home. She had been in ill health for the past four years.

Born in Pickaway County, Mrs. Wallace had spent most of her life in the Williamsport community.

She is survived by her husband, Ralph T. Wallace, two sons, Paul, at home, and Ned, of South Bloomfield; three daughters, Emily and Beatrice, at home, and Mrs. Faye Cupp, Circleville; one brother, five sisters, and three grandchildren.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Friday in the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland. Burial will be in Springlawn Cemetery, Williamsport.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 3 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. William Teets

NEW HOLLAND — Mrs. Eva Teets, 76, Rt. 1, Clarksburg, died at 2:15 p.m. Monday in Fayette Memorial Hospital, where she had been a patient for the past two weeks. She had been in ill health for the past four years.

Born in West Virginia, Mrs. Teets lived most of her life in the New Holland, Williamsport, Clarksburg communities.

Surviving besides her husband, William, are a son, Charles (Red) Sowards, New Holland, two brothers, John and Jake Shull, of Brooksville, Fla., and Circleville, respectively; four sisters, Mrs. Susie Spurlock, Mrs. Rosie Nance, Mrs. Aileen Rayburn, and Miss Irene Shull, all living in West Virginia; and five grandchildren.

Services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the Williamsport Church of Christ in Christian Union, with the Rev. Norval Shepard officiating. Burial will be in Springlawn Cemetery, Williamsport.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 3 p.m. Wednesday and until noon Thursday and at the church until the time of the services.

MRS. GEORGE D. ANDERSON — Services for Mrs. Ruth I. Anderson, 70, wife of George D. Anderson, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling, were held at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Sugar Grove United Methodist Church with the Rev. Earl Russell officiating. Mrs. Anderson died Thursday in Bradenton, Fla.

Two hymns were sung by the Rev. Mr. Russell accompanied by Mrs. Lawrence Black at the organ.

Pallbearers for burial in Sugar Grove Cemetery, under the direction of the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home, were Tony and Doug Anderson, Dick Gladle, Mack, David, Brant, Donald, Gary, Joe, Dick, Tom and Jimmy Cockerill.

British Cabinet said split over Heath-Miners dispute

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath's cabinet is reported split over his refusal to give in to the coal miners' pay demands and end the cut in coal production which the government blames for Britain's electric power crisis.

Political correspondents of London newspapers said Heath's ministers are also divided over whether he should call a general election next month.

The election would test whether the three-day work week he ordered for the country Jan. 1 has swung the majority of the voters to his Conservatives or to the miners' backers in the Labor party.

Some ministers were reported adamant that the government not give in to the miners' demands for pay raises above the ceilings set by Heath's anti-inflation program. Others believe the most important thing is to end the miners' ban on overtime and Sunday work and get deliveries of coal to the nation's power stations back to normal.

Heath stood firm against the miners' demands Monday in another meeting

Living costs jump again

WASHINGTON (AP) — With fuel prices leading the way, consumer prices jumped sharply in December and closed out 1973 with the worst inflation record in 27 years, the government reported today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the Consumer Price Index rose by five-tenths of one per cent last month, seasonally adjusted. Although the rise was less than the eight-tenths of one per cent increase in each of the previous two months, it was still high by normal standards. Unadjusted, the increase was seven-tenths of one per cent, matching November's rise.

December's increase pushed consumer prices up 8.8 per cent for the year, the largest annual increase since the removal of World War II price controls.

With prices rising faster than income, the bureau reported that real spendable earnings — weekly after-taxes pay stripped of the effects of inflation — fell one-tenth of one per cent in December, the third consecutive monthly decline.

Over the past year, real spendable earnings declined three per cent, with about half of the drop caused by inflation and half by tax increases.

Cambodians push Red insurgents from pocket

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Government infantry and armor penetrated an insurgent pocket northwest of Phnom Penh today, but most of the estimated 2,000 Khmer Rouge had withdrawn to the west during the night, field reports said.

More than 5,000 government soldiers, backed by armored personnel carriers and air strikes, drove from two directions into the boomerang-shaped area about eight miles northwest of the city.

Resistance was reported light. But aggressive government action in the past few days inflicted heavy casualties on the insurgents.

An Associated Press newsmen who toured the battlefield in an armored vehicle said bodies of Khmer Rouge soldiers were scattered over the area and Cambodian army jeeps were hauling off captured weapons.

Ford again backs Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford said today that President Nixon has told him he was not involved in the erasure of an 18½-minute of a subpoenaed White House tape.

Ford said that, on the basis of what Nixon told him, "the President was not involved" in the erasure of a segment of a conversation between Nixon and former top aide H.R. Haldeman.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica has asked a grand jury to investigate circumstances surrounding the erasure to determine if it was deliberate.

A panel of technical experts testified last week that the erasure involved at least five separate erasures and could not have been the result of a single, accidental erasure as originally suggested by the White House.

Speaking at a news conference, Ford also repeated his claim that a small group of anti-Nixon partisans is behind the move to impeach Nixon and said the President is innocent of any wrongdoing in connection with Watergate.

Indicted parents set meeting with Essex

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Parents of nine Greenville children indicted for not sending their youngsters to accredited public schools will meet Feb. 4 with state School Supt. Martin W. Essex.

An attorney for the parents said they will meet with Essex in an effort to solve the problem.

Parents have pleaded innocent to the charges. Their children have been attending Tabernacle Christian School east of here.

States joining energy bandwagon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Surprised by the fuel crisis, states have scrambled to appoint energy officials who suddenly have to find out how real the crisis is and exactly how much gasoline and fuel oil they've got to cover spot shortages.

They are attempting this unprecedented task amid the confusion of changing federal regulations which some say are too little too late.

An Associated Press survey of 34 state energy officials showed that all feel their states are in an energy pinch, but most are unsure of the root causes. Many raised questions about oil industry culpability in the energy crisis, and many admitted they didn't really know how much fuel their states have.

"No provision for gathering oil information existed prior to Jan. 15 and we won't have figures until Feb. 1," said Harold Wills, Kansas fuel allocations officer.

How genuine are state gas and oil shortages?

"As far as Vermont is concerned, I know damn well there's a shortage," said Forrest Orr, head of the special state energy office. Like several other states, Vermont has little oil storage capacity.

"We have to rely on supplies from outside," he said.

While he said he did not know the extent of national fuel shortages and had no inside information to show that the oil industry may have contrived the situation, he added, "There is a certain degree of doubt in my mind that it is real."

The survey showed Orr's quandry is widespread. Some officials blamed the crisis on a real shortage of crude oil, but many had nagging doubts about oil industry involvement.

"If it was caused by increased consumption, lack of supply and refining capacity, then the oil companies are taking a bum rap. If it is part of a planned strategy, then they ought to be brought to the bar of public opinion," said Robert Davis, Oregon's top energy official.

How much fuel does each state have?

Fourteen surveyed states had no reliable figures on their fuel supply. Another 14, relying on oil industry figures or educated guesswork, said gasoline and fuel oil stocks were down over last year's figures. A few said they were holding their own.

All welcomed President Nixon's promise Saturday to seek legislation requiring constant accounting by oil companies of their supplies and reserves.

How about federal efforts so far in the crisis?

They were called confused, misplaced, unresponsive or "too little, too late" by 17 state officials. Thirteen gave Washington "adequate" ratings. Four didn't respond to the question.

Khadafy visits Americans, shows signs of friendship

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — The doorbell rang after all the guests had arrived for the Osbornes' New Year's Eve party at the American family's home in a Tripoli suburb.

"Who's there?" asked John Osborne of Garden City, Tex., an executive of the Marathon Petroleum Corp.

"Colonel Khadafy," said the man at the door.

That was the Osborne family's introduction to their new neighbor — Col. Moammar Khadafy, Libya's president. The 32-year-old leader used to live in an army barracks and shunned Tripoli's European and American colonies.

"I have come to wish you all a happy new year," Khadafy said with a smile as he entered the Osborne home.

The guests quickly hid their drinks, remembering Moslem Khadafy's countrywide ban on alcoholic beverages. But the handsome young hero of the Libyan revolution reassured the revelers, "Please, be at ease," and added that he had come to share their company, not to police the party.

Khadafy sat down and in English talked in leisurely fashion with the oil company employees, diplomats and their wives about Libya's need for Western technology and his own staunch defense of Islam and the Koran. He stayed about an hour.

Earlier, he had called at the home nearby of Dean Stegman, an official of the Oasis petroleum group. Stegman and his wife were away for the holidays, and long-haired, 15-year-old Dean Jr. answered the bell. Khadafy joined him and two friends and they talked about long-haired hippies and the Koran.

Stock list up slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market remained slightly higher today after pulling back from a strong early gain. Bluechips were flat.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up nearly 10 points in early trading, was unchanged at 854.63 at noon, while advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by about 7 to 4.

Ted Bukowski, analyst with E. F. Hutton & Co., said the early gains were a carrythrough of Monday's late-session strength. He said the market seemed to "have discounted most of the bad news of Monday."

Other brokers said news from Monday of duPont Walston's decision to sell assets and go out of business, a possible squeeze on oil-company profits, and the rise in gold prices was still unsettling investors.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index at noon was up .24 at 95.33, while the NYSE index was up .04 at 51.07.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio is into another clammy day. Early morning lows ranged from 33 in Toledo to 45 in Marietta, with highs expected to reach the 40s or low 50s this afternoon.

Showers and drizzle were expected to continue today and tonight under the influence of a low pressure center moving in from the west. Lows tonight were expected to be in the 30s under the rainy skies.

Cooler air was to move in behind the low as it passes on to the northeast Wednesday and the rain was to change to snow or flurries in northeastern Ohio.

Highs in the northeast Wednesday were to be around 40 while southern Ohio highs were expected to be in the 40s as the rain tapers off.

There will be a chance of showers daily Thursday through Saturday with highs all three days in the 40s north to the upper 40s or mid 50s south. Lows will be in the upper 20s and 30s.

LBJ death year ago

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — There was a simple wreath of white chrysanthemums today for the great hall of the Lyndon Baines Johnson Library to mark the death of the nation's 36th president a year ago.

No public ceremony was planned.

However, large numbers of visitors were expected at the library to see a constant rerun of a 10-minute film of the ceremonies when Johnson's body lay in state at the library.

Mrs. Johnson will not be among them.

The former First Lady, who recently turned 61, planned to spend the day at LBJ Ranch house 65 miles west of Austin with her daughter, Mrs. Luci Nugent, and her family.

Last week, a plain pink granite headstone was placed on the grave. It reads: "Lyndon Baines Johnson, Aug. 27, 1908-January 22, 1973, 36th President of the United States."

No city pacts for ambulances

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cities and towns must contract for ambulance service through a board of county commissioners, Deputy Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson said today.

Ferguson said that the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices ruled that municipal officials do not have the power to contract for private ambulance services under the Ohio Revised Code.

"The board of county commissioners must contract for the service, supervise it and set terms of payment," he said.

Gasoline prices rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail gasoline prices rose an average of 4.4 per cent in December, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

White House sets staff regulations

on press talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House staff members have been asked to report any contacts they have with members of the news media, a presidential spokesman confirmed Monday.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said there was no intent to intimidate people or curb contacts with the press.

The intent, he said, was to be informed about "concerns being expressed by the press" of things that are on the public's mind.

Warren said he did not know if President Nixon was aware of the request. He said the reports are to be made to the press office headed by Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who is also an assistant to the President.

Finch won't seek political office

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Robert H. Finch has decided to follow the advice he once gave Richard M. Nixon: don't run for governor of California.

In 1962, Nixon disregarded the urging of his friend and lost a bitter contest for governor to Democrat Edmund G. Brown.

Twelve years later, Finch says he will not seek any political office in California in 1974.

Finch, 48, had been considered as a potential candidate for governor or the U.S. Senate ever since he left the Nixon administration a year ago. He served as presidential counselor and secretary of the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A local version of public TV's "Washington Week in Review" is afoot at KCET-TV in Los Angeles. But there's a major difference in the type of journalists appearing on the show.

All are working newspaper reporters who get out each day and inspect documents, grill assorted politicians, bureaucrats and other miscreants.

Columnists — which in Washington are generally defined as those who munch on what others report — aren't invited on KCET's "Los Angeles Collective News Review."

"I don't want columnists," says Taylor Hackford, who produces the half-hour, once-a-month show. "The nature of this show is going to be pretty much hard news reporting."

"And I find that I don't get a lot of hard news when I read columns."

He says he wants only journalism's front-line troops because "we're trying to get some perspective and longrange repercussions of stories they've reported, as well as some of the behind-the-scenes things they haven't written about in their articles."

On this month's show, the stories ranged from campaign contributions in California's gubernatorial race to an effort to recall a Los Angeles city councilman.

The four reporters discussing their stories were from the Los Angeles Times, the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram, the Santa Ana Register and the Northeast Newspapers chain.

Hackford, 29, says an important part of "News Review," which began last month, is that "one of the chairs is always open to a reporter from one of the suburban newspapers."

"Los Angeles, by its very nature, is all spread out and people here have less of a sense of community than they do in other major cities."

Hackford says he doesn't want reporters from Los Angeles' commercial TV stations on "News Review."

The major factor, he says, is that most don't have regular beats, or assignments, let alone air time for in-depth coverage.

"Print reporters, on the other hand, have beats," he said. "For example, Bill Boyarsky, the political reporter on the Times, knows Los Angeles, the city, the county, the state governments."

"He's there every day. And when you get a print reporter like that, someone who's immersed in a subject, I think people like this can provide a helluva lot more perspective than the people in the electronic media."

Control board OKs funds for lottery

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republicans on the state Controlling Board voted Monday against loaning $2 million to the state Lottery Commission, but the measure passed, 4-3.

But an act of the General Assembly called for the money to be given within 30 days after the lottery commission held its first meeting Dec. 5.

"We're already in violation of our own mandate," noted Rep. Frederick Young, R-38 Dayton.

"That's not the first time," countered Rep. Myrl H. Shoemaker, D-88 Bourneville.

In other action during the three-hour session, the board released overtime pay for highway patrolmen on duty at the Dec. 5-8 truck blockade and approved transfer of $2.1 million from instructional grants toward a pay increase for civil service employees at state universities.

Sens. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, and Max H. Dennis, R-10 Wilmington, joined Young in voting against the full $2 million lottery loan request.

A spokesman from state Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson's office said the $2 million would be used for initial expenses, such as renting a building and hiring a staff.

Bag supply bids hurt by shortage

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state official wants to forego the procedure of taking bids on supplying bags to Ohio liquor stores because of the paper shortage.

Joseph Sommer, director of the Ohio

Department of Administrative Services, said 68 firms were invited to bid last month on a contract beginning Feb. 1. But he said 18 responded with no bids.

OU studies college plan

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio University trustees announced Monday that they will hold public meetings in March at Portsmouth on proposals for a general-technical college in Scioto County.

The board took no action on the proposed college, but they did tell Dr. Robert Flinchbaugh, director of the OU branch at Portsmouth to supply them with information on teacher tenure for use if the proposal is approved.

Earlier this month, administrators at the Portsmouth branch and the Scioto Technical College announced plans to combine their technical facilities and establish a general technical college.

Proponents of the plan said students will be able to pursue associate arts degrees in liberal arts, applied science and applied business.

The proposal met opposition from two Ironton groups. Opponents charge if the trustees approve the new college, nearby Lawrence County could lose its OU branch.

Ideas aren't commodities

A recent issue of Time magazine gave considerable space to a University of Chicago economist's championing of a decrepit and badly spavined thesis about the press. This is the notion that ideas are as much a commodity as drugs, say, or railroad service, and should be equally subject to government regulation and control. Prof. Ronald H. Coase says he doesn't think the "distinction between the market for goods and the market for ideas is valid."

In our opinion this is nonsense of the purest ray serene. We concede that the First Amendment guarantee of freedom of expression protects bad as well as responsible journalism. It could not be otherwise, for any official attempt to determine what is good and what is bad-and therefore censorable-would have to rely on the intolerable practice of prior restraint.

Once prior restraint comes in the door, free expression goes out the window.

It is disturbing to find a man with academic credentials relying on the shopworn idea, so dear to the would-be censors, that "bad" reading matter should officially be kept from poisoning minds. This seems to be exactly what Coase means when he says that "buying harmful ideas is just as bad as buying harmful drugs."

Ideas, as history amply proves, are far more powerful than the most potent of drugs. But ideas may have power for either good or evil.

Judgment as to this is the essential function, a function that must be left to individuals.

Galbraith's fatuous proposal

A couple of weeks ago, Newsweek had an article by Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith, the gist of which was that it was unfortunate for the liberals that Vice President Spiro Agnew went under so fast, and that as far as President Nixon is concerned the liberal cause would best be served if, rather than being impeached, he were left to "swing in the wind" as an abject lesson to the electorate on what happens when it puts conservatives in office.

In short, Nixon should be left as an albatross around the Republican Party's neck right through 1976.

This has a certain superficial cunning (though, of course, anyone who seriously supported this scenario would not write it up), but at base it is fundamentally irresponsible. It is what I call "faculty meeting politics": the dirtiest and most irresponsible in the world because there are no stakes, losers don't have to pay.

In a broader political context, it is an exercise in the politics of catastrophe—one of Galbraith's areas of expertise. The same friendly Democrats who gave you Gene McCarthy and George McGovern are once again playing games with the American national interest.

WHAT THEY FAIL to comprehend is that there is a quantum jump between faculty and national politics. You can leave a weak college president in office indefinitely (with the faculty grabbing the power levers) and nothing much will happen.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Take the witness stand

Drew Pearson's diaries from 1949 to 1959, edited by his stepson, Tyler Abell, will soon be in the bookstores. I hope the publishers, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, send a copy to each member of the Senate's Watergate committee.

Drew Pearson was a useful citizen, not always in ways he intended. I lived opposite him on Twenty-ninth Street in Washington's Georgetown section from 1944 to 1948, and found him a most affable neighbor. We were poles apart on matters of fundamental philosophy, so we had little to say to each other beyond passing the time of day.

But I found him handy to control my young daughters. They had heard of Drew Pearson's journalistic reputation as an exposure artist, and I had only to suggest that Bogeyman Drew would get them in order to make them behave. They may have splashed childish graffiti on other walls, but left Drew's strictly alone even though they didn't like his Halloween trick-or-treat goodies.

RICHARD NIXON might find the Pearson revelations useful to the end of proving that Sen. Ervin, Weiker and the rest have lost perspective on skulduggery by their refusal to project the Watergate investigations backward in time.

I think bugging telephones, even in the name of national security, a most dubious business. Something certainly should be done to stop the practice. But to make Nixon uniquely responsible for things that have rightly gagged Sen. Weiker is historically unfair.

If there hadn't been 40 years of Watergate antecedents to expose, Drew Pearson wouldn't have died a rich man.

The use of income-tax investigations to threaten people on White House "enemy" lists is indeed despicable. So what do you make of Pearson's mention, on page 134 of his posthumously published book, of the great FDR's starting "to investigate Roy Howard's income tax"? Roy, of course, headed the Scripps-Howard papers. Any threat to press freedom there?

Then there is the little matter of oil and dairy contributions in political campaigns. Nixon is under fire now for being politically in hook to oil "barons" for help, and he has had to take refuge in saying that his aid to the dairy states in 1972 was standardized routine.

It's good to get oil and milk practices out in the open, but it should be done on one proviso, that the Watergate Committee take note of Pearson's entries about Lyndon Johnson and his pals being the political beneficiaries of oil contributions in the past.

Drew (see page 439 of the diaries) quotes Lyndon Johnson on his "disadvantage" in having "to represent the oil and gas people." Said LBJ to Drew, "You forgive Hubert Humphrey when he champions the dairy people in Minnesota . . . You forgive Kefauver his problems. But you don't forgive me mine."

As a matter o Drew's own record, he did forgive LBJ. See page 246 of the diaries for a most interesting note: "I remember the days when Lyndon used to call me from Texas saying he had a tight primary fight and asking me to make this or that prediction regarding him."

Drew apparently didn't mind LBJ's attempt to use him for campaign purposes. He lit into Sen. Tom Dodd for taking free rides in company planes between Washington and Connecticut, but he was singularly complaisant about the time Lyndon allegedly "ordered a plane from Gen. Kelly in a hurry to fly back to Texas . . . on purely personal business" (see page 510 of the diaries).

AND (see page 498) where Drew remarks on the concessions which George Brown, the Texas pipeline operator and construction man, continued to get "from the Eisenhower Administration . . . thanks to Lyndon and Sam Rayburn." There is no particular chastisement of Lyndon for protecting Brown "on a scandalous income-tax fraud charge back under Roosevelt."

Pearson liked Lyndon where he disliked LBJ's successor in the White House sufficiently to make an issue of the fact that where the Riggs bank let Nixon have mortgage money at 4½ per cent, it charged Drew 6 per cent for a roughly identical sum. Maybe Nixon offered better security.

The game of comparisons could go on. Nixon is charged with cutting corners in fixing up San Clemente. Well, read Pearson on Eisenhower's Gettysburg farm (page 457). Ike, he said (quoting his tipsters), "did not pay for repairs on his house at Gettysburg. He wrote one firm a nice thank-you letter for putting in the intercom system between the house and the barn for $7,000. They sent him a bill, he wrote back a thank-you note."

It's no defense of Nixon to say "they all did it." But a Senate committee should expose what "they all" did if history is to record an even-handed judgment of American political practices.

The United States paid Russia a little less than two cents an acre for Alaska in 1867.

Gilligan good psychiatric aide

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan was rated a "damn good" psychiatric aide trainee Monday after working 1½ hours with two mentally retarded youngsters at Orient State Institute.

Dr. George Jurcinsin, an institute consultant from Chillicothe, made the appraisal of Gilligan and added, "He relates to the kids and the kids relate to him. That's important."

Jurcinsin said it didn't matter to Jimmy Long, 11, of Lancaster, and Dexter Spencer, 16, of Cincinnati, that Gilligan was inexperienced.

Gilligan donned a knee-length white coat and worked in a ward to observe the second anniversary of a program to humanize life for Ohio's 23,000 mental patients.

Dr. Albert Soforenko, institute administrator, suggested the trainee idea to the governor.

Soforenko said, "Gilligan constantly impressed me. He really felt at ease. He didn't give the average first reaction on seeing mentally retarded people."

Gilligan began his training by lifting the 48-pound Jimmy from his special $800 wheelchair onto a exercise table.

Jimmy's blue eyes focused on the governor, and Gilligan said, "There's nothing much to look at this way."

Gilligan moved the boy's arms and fingers and remarked to nurse Bobbie Brysacz, "He has a pretty good grip." Jimmy's small hand gently squeezed the index finger of the chief executive.

and visited the 24-bed dormitory where the youngster sleeps.

The governor also worked with Dexter, who has no use of his arms or legs and is a deaf mute. Dexter wore a specially-made head harness that had a steel pointer attached.

Gilligan helped the youth punch O-H-I-O on an electric typewriter.

Gilligan said to the smiling youngster, "After all that work on the typewriter, you should be hungry."

In the cafeteria, the governor spooned potatoes, cole slaw and ground Weiner to Dexter.

"I never have had pulverized weiners," Gilligan remarked. "I hope they're good."

Gilligan concluded his duty as a trainee with the feeding of Dexter.

"Two years ago this was a pig sty," he said. "Now they are eating family style. It's an indication of how much can be done at a cost of a nickel a week to the taxpayers."

He added, "We have made remarkable progress, but we've got a long way to go. At least we have turned it around and are going in the right direction."

Dr. Kenneth Gaver, director of the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation, said the state has spent $9.6 million in the last two years to replace old furniture, add curtains, construct partitions for additional privacy and provide more training to staff.

He said more than $900,000 has been spent on Orient, the state's largest mental institution with 2,250 residents.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Even up the odds
with a handicap

DEAR ABBY: A mother wrote in complaining because her husband would never let their eight-year-old son win at Monopoly or chess, and you agreed that the father was right.

Let's put the shoe on the other foot. Years ago, I used to play dominoes with my father, who was then getting on in years and not as sharp as he used to be. I could have beaten him every time if I had wanted to, but I often let him beat me. I can still recall the look of pleasure on his face when he'd win.

You said a child should learn to accept defeat with grace and good sportsmanship until he develops the skill to win fairly and squarely. But in the meantime, the boy is apt to think of his father as a merciless "machine" that runs over him with all the grace of a bulldozer.

GOOD JUDGMENT (I HOPE)

DEAR JUDGMENT: Letting "Papa" win at dominoes isn't the same as letting Junior win. Children are not easily fooled, and it's more confidence shattering to suspect that Daddy is "letting" them win. But read on for a better solution.

DEAR ABBY: You missed the obvious answer to Mother who thought Father should let their eight-year-old win once in a while.

Let Dad play with a handicap! Handicaps are used by pros and amateurs to even the odds in all kinds of games.

Sure, the son needs to learn how to accept defeat with grace, but losing all the time is no fun, and it teaches discouragement.

I've been playing games with my seven-year-old son for years and we both play to win because I take a handicap. As his skill increases, my handicap decreases.

Accept defeat gracefully, Abby, and tell Dad to even up the game by using this suggestion.

DOUG KINDSCH: SPRINGFIELD, ILL.

DEAR DOUG: You win! I sometimes need a greater handicap than I settle for. As in this instance.

DEAR ABBY: Every year for the past 16 years I have made Christmas dinner for "the family" at my home. I always have between 24 and 30, and I work very hard to make it nice.

My question: How long should I be expected to wait for late guests? My invitations read, "cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m."

This past Christmas a married niece and her husband arrived at 8 o'clock! (They are always anywhere from an hour to an hour and a half late.) The little ones were hungry and got restless, and the older ones drank too much, and my dinner was overcooked. Need I tell you how I felt?

Please answer this in your column as I am sure other hostesses have the same problem.

UPSET

DEAR UPSET: Start serving when you planned to. Guests will arrive on time if they know that the hostess will not wait for anyone. Your guests have trained you to wait for them. It's time you trained THEM to be on time!

DEAR ABBY: My 18-year-old sister has moved away from home and is sharing an apartment with another girl. If she decides to get married, is it my parents' responsibility to pay for the wedding?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Only if they want it.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, Jan. 22, the 22nd day of 1974.

There are 343 days left in the year. Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1901, an era came to an end in England with the death of Queen Victoria at the age of 82.

On this date: In 1517, Turkish troops captured Cairo. In 1528, England and France declared war on the Holy Roman Emperor, Charles V.

In 1917, President Woodrow Wilson proposed a League of Nations.

In 1957, George Metesky was arrested in Waterbury, Conn., and accused of being the "mad bomber" who had planted 32 bombs in the New York area over 16 years.

In 1962, foreign ministers of the 21 nations of the Organization of American States met in Uruguay to consider the threat of Cuba to the Western Hemisphere.

Ten years ago: The United States and Canada agreed on a power and flood development program for the Columbia River Basin in the Pacific Northwest.

Five years ago: The Soviet Union agreed to attend a U.S. parley on satellite communications as an observer.

One year ago: The 36th president of the United States, Lyndon B. Johnson died at the age of 64.

Today's birthdays: Democratic Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana is 46. Actress Ann Sothern is 63.

Thought for today: Take the world as it is, not as it should be — anonymous.

State taxation change pushed

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's system of taxation penalizes property owners who want to make improvements and he wants to do something about it, says Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland.

The 30-year-old college instructor is pushing for passage this year of his bill providing a tax break for improvements of homes, apartment buildings and condominiums.

Van Meter claims his measure not only would permit a property owner to pay for improvements before he begins paying taxes on them, but also will serve as a stimulus for the state's economy.

"With the prospect of an economic slowdown, this could really stimulate Ohio's economy," the senator said, "When you stimulate the construction industry, it helps others like lumber, plasterers, glass manufacturers, and right on down the line."

Van Meter's bill provides that if a homeowner or the owner of a multi-dwelling building makes an improvement that would increase his valuation by $1,000, he could wait a year before starting to pay taxes on the improvement.

If the improvement were to cost

$2,000, then the delay would be for two years, and so on, up to a maximum for five years for an improvement that increased the owner's valuation by $5,000 or more.

"Our tax system penalizes people for improving their property when we should be offering incentives to encourage people to do such projects," the senator said.

Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, whose Ways & Means Committee is considering Van Meter's bill, said he agrees with its concept. "I think the principle has a lot of merit," he said.

Van Meter's bill was the first of an expected batch of measures to ease property taxes in view of higher than anticipated revenues from the state income tax.

Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, introduced a bill to increase the income levels that determine reductions under homestead property tax provisions for Ohioans 65 and over. A property owner could take a reduction of 70 per cent if his annual income was $3,000 or less, compared to the present $2,000, under Mottl's bill.

OEA wants impounded funds freed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Education Association says it wants the state to release $20 million in appropriated vocational education construction funds which it claims is being held as a buffer against the energy crisis.

In addition, the OEA asked for an additional $100 per child in state money for local school districts during the coming school year.

The General Assembly appropriated the funds last session with the stipulation it would be distributed only if there were enough state funds to cover it.

"Although revenues have been up, the funds have been held as a buffer against expected increased costs to the state because of the energy problem," said OEA President Donald L. Traxler.

A resolution adopted by the association's executive committee said a number of local school districts will be forced to request an increase in property taxes to cover inflation costs without the additional state funds. Meanwhile, state revenues have exceeded estimates in the first quarter of the biennium.

The resolution passed this week also said a "determination that the energy crisis is either less than anticipated or does not exist would decrease the need to buffer state revenues against decreases in revenues and increases in state costs."

Traxler said he will ask Gov. John J. Gilligan to determine the effects of the energy crisis on state expenditures, and then to release the money if it is available.

Luken said the slight savings of energy isn't "worth the disruption to our daily lives. He said early morning darkness has cut the production of employees.

He wants the resolution sent to Congress, the Ohio Legislature and Gov. John Gilligan.

Many local vocational education projects are being held up because of the absence of matching state funds.

"The OEA is also asking the governor to recommend to the Ohio General Assembly a supplemental appropriation of $100 per child for school operating expenses next school year," as soon as it's determined that the money is available, Traxler said.

IF YOU'RE GOING TO CALL LONG DISTANCE DURING THE WEEK, WAIT A MINUTE.

You'll save money if you just hold off.

Until 5 P.M.

Because from 5 P.M. to 11 P.M. Monday through Friday, dial-it-yourself rates are low. (Even lower after 11 P.M. all day Saturday, and until 5 P.M. Sunday.)

They're so low you can dial an out-of-state call as far as California and talk a full 10 minutes for no more than $2.60 plus tax.

For example, call Dallas for $2.10. Or San Francisco, $2.60. Or Fort Wayne, $1.60. Or Boston,

$2.05. Or Miami, $2.10. For 10 relaxing minutes.

So the next time you go to make a long distance call during the week, wait a minute.

Check your watch first. And make sure it's after 5:00 P.M.

All rates plus tax.

Miss Gale Braden has completed plans for her marriage to Joe Lane, which will be at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the South Side Church of Christ.

Miss Braden is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Braden, Rt. 6, and Joe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Lane, Frankfort.

Miss Braden has asked Mrs. Debbie Braden, a sister-in-law, to be her matron of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Diane Morrow, Mrs. Vicki Johnson and Miss Karen Lane, sister of the prospective groom. Miss Tracey Lane, another sister of the prospective groom, will be junior bridesmaid.

Brad Lightle will serve as best man. Tom Braden, brother of the bride, Mark DeWitt, Don Skillet and Larry Cochenour will serve as ushers.

Mrs. Kay Cochenour will preside at the guest book. A reception will follow in Fellowship Hall. Hostesses for the reception will be Mrs. Wilbur Hoppes, Miss Becky Hoppes, Miss Penny Hardman, Miss Lisa Dixon, and Miss Dunny Dale Current, both cousins of the bride-elect.

Bride-elect complimented

Mrs. Wilbur Hoppes and daughter Becky combined hospitalities at a bridal shower honoring Miss Gale Braden, bride-elect of Joe Lane. The shower took place in the Hoppes home on the Boyd Rd.

Contests winners were Mrs. Joe L. Lane, Becky Hoppes and Jane Anne Kiger.

The gift table was decorated with pink flowers as a centerpiece. Pink flowers encircled the base of the punch bowl. Individual cakes were decorated with pink roses and a small wedding ring. Ice cream, mints and nuts were also served from the refreshment table. Mrs. Lucille Braden, grandmother of the bride-elect, presided at the punch bowl.

Miss Braden received many lovely gifts.

Guests present were Mrs. Eddie Braden, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Joe L. Lane, mother of the prospective groom, Mrs. Lucille Braden, Mrs. Harold Bakenhester and daughter

Jeff Club holds meeting

The members of the Stitch and Chat Club of Jeffersonville met Friday in the Lions Club room for a noon carry-in luncheon.

The invocation was followed by a moment of silence for two deceased members, Mrs. Lena Young and Mrs. Nellie Woodruff.

Mrs. Joe Ferguson, president, presided and welcomed the group. Mrs. Earl Swaney, secretary, read the minutes of the December meeting.

Thank you notes were read, and cards signed for members and friends who are ill. Yearly calendars were completed and all were urged to bring feeding bibs for a nursing home to the next meeting.

The February meeting will be a Valentine party, and each is to bring a handmade valentine and a wrapped white elephant gift.

A social hour followed, and members were busy with various projects.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Ruth Williams, Mrs. Rowena Cummins and Mrs. Osie Huffman. Members present were Mrs. Carl Stackhouse, Mrs. George Reedy, Mrs. Agnes Ford, Mrs. Ance Creamer, Mrs. Nathan Ervin, Mrs. Olive Brookover, Mrs. Harold Cline, Mrs. Reba Straley, Mrs. Osie Huffman, Miss Helen Fults, Mrs. Earl Swaney, Mrs. Marie Thompson, Mrs. Joe Ferguson, Mrs. Cummins and Mrs. Williams.

Money Does Matter . . .

By Robert E. English

THERE'S MORE TO LIVING THAN JUST MAKING MONEY - REALLY!

In your family effort to save and spend within the limits of income, do not neglect life's little extra dividends - advancement, health, and recreation.

A saving and spending plan should provide for the personal advancement of each family member - through education, books, magazines, theatre, and other cultural activities.

Your health is very important. Have regular checkups and include planning which provides for unexpected dental, medical, and hospital care.

Once a year you owe yourself and your family a change of pace, a change of scene, some diversion, entertainment, recreation.

Plan for these things - save purposefully - and truly enjoy the rewards resulting from planning for better living.

Congratulations to:

Mr. and Mrs. I.L. (Roy) Booco of Jeffersonville, Ohio who celebrated their golden wedding anniversary January 19, 1974.

Kenny Campbell, of Landmark Feed, as being promoted to assistant superintendent.

One of the functions of a complete service bank is that of helping people - "individuals" - plan for their better living.

At The First National Bank of Washington Court House we are delighted to be of help - with no charge or obligation involved. It's our concern about your concerns!

Club plans card party

Mrs. Mike Bailo welcomed members of the Welcome Wagon Club at a meeting held recently, when a card party was planned for March 6 at St. Colman's Catholic Church.

A dessert course was served to Mrs. Bill Early, Mrs. Tim Vehnekamp, Mrs. Wayne Prosser, Mrs. Rod Meyer, Mrs. Wayne Clark, Mrs. Russell Whiting, Mrs. Jack Milburn, Mrs. Phillip Johnston, Mrs. James Rooks, Mrs. Jerry Reitmeier, Mrs. Robert Simpson, Mrs. Jack Marti, Mrs. Tom Irwin, Mrs. Max Forsythe, Mrs. Douglas Seipert, Mrs. John Wagner, Mrs. William Hughes and Mrs. Ronald Lott.

Also Mrs. Dale Stevens, Mrs. Dareld Clark, Mrs. Chuck Edwards, Mrs. Kenneth Shaver, Mrs. Jim Lipscomb, Mrs. Rodney Rich, Mrs. Mike Bailo, Mrs. Jim Polson, Mrs. Ron Kemplin, Mrs. Larry Moran, Mrs. Ron Pohlman and Miss Sue Geisler.

For an easy dessert, buy cream puff shells at a bakery. Fill with packaged pudding and spread tops with ready-to-use frosting.

Mrs. Kelly

guest of honor

Mrs. Homer Kelly of New Holland was feted Saturday at a 'birthday party' and dinner by members of her family and other relatives.

Guests came from Xenia, Springfield, Frankfort and Washington C.H. She also received many beautiful cards, gifts, and telephone calls from friends.

Count on a quart of ice cream yielding six to eight servings.

Announces engagement

MISS CONNIE E. COCKERILL

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis E. Cockerill, Rt. 2, Frankfort, are announcing the engagement of their daughter Connie Ellen to Steve B. Winegar, son of Mr. and Mrs. Heber B. Winegar, Rt. 3, Greenfield.

Miss Cockerill, a 1972 graduate of Adena High School, is now employed as a secretary for the Downtown Drugstore in Washington C.H.

Her fiancé, a graduate of McClain High School, is an aircraft technician. He is a civilian employee at Lockbourne AFB, Columbus.

No definite date has been set for the wedding.

Wedding is announced

Mr. H.E. Kruger and Mrs. Opal J. Ault were married Jan. 12 by the Rev. Ralph Wolford in First Baptist Church. Their only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Ted Yoakum.

Following a wedding trip they are residing at 6456 Prairie Rd.

On Sunday, a reception was given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moore, who were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Geesling. The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth, with pink candles encircled with pink and white roses. A wedding cake decorated with pink roses and white sugar bells centered the table.

The following guests attended the reception: Mrs. Ruth Clay, Mrs. Dora Willis, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Thompson,

Miss Lela Kruger, Mr. and Mrs. LeDroit Hodson, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Parrett, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Pursell and children Tricia and Tony, Mrs. Tessie Ault, Mrs.

Grace Hargrave, Miss Bertha Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Yoakum, Eddie Geesling and John Moore.

Church Women United to meet on Friday

The annual meeting of Church Women United of Fayette County will be held Friday at 1:30 p.m. in McNair Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Gerald Wheat will be guest speaker, and Mrs. Charles Wood will present devotions.

Reports will be presented by committee chairmen. Mrs. Edwin Thompson will be vocalist, and Mrs. John Case, organist. The nominating committee will be reported by Mrs. Willard Bonham, and Mrs. B.E. Kelley will be in charge of the installation of new officers.

A social hour will follow with the McNair Women in charge. Mrs. Charles Hurtt is president of CWU. Women from all of the churches in the area are cordially invited.

NEW HOLLAND MYF

The New Holland Junior High MYF met in the church with Mrs. Shirley Tarbill, Mrs. Barbara Hecoax and Rev. Prentiss Spear in charge. Joyce Eggleton and Kathy Kirk led the devotions entitled "Friendship" and "Esther."

Mrs. Hecoax led group discussion on "What You See and Hear," concerning the mass media or radio, TV, newspapers and magazines, and the role each plays in lives, and the wisdom with which one must choose the right things for growing Christians.

Plans for future meetings were drawn. Dr. Sprouse of Circleville will be guest speaker at 7 p.m. Jan. 27. On Feb. 3, the group plans to attend the movie "Time to Run" at the Fayette Cinema; the Jeffersonville MYF has invited the New Holland group to be their guests at 6:30 p.m. on Feb. 24 the group will go bowling as a group at Bowland.

The devotions committee for Jan. 27 is composed of Chris Taylor and Rhonda Hecoax. Refreshments will be served by Terry Thompson and Joyce Eggleton.

The remainder of the evening was spent making and eating pizza. The eighth graders furnished the pizza and seventh grades the drinks.

Calling all bread-makers

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Now that there's a revival of home bread-baking in this country, cooks who want to learn the art or garner new recipes would do well to look into the recently published "Beard on Bread" by James Beard (Knopf). Introductions to the recipes add interesting and informative details as do Jim Beard's observations on the various kinds of flours, meals and additives, and on leavening, utensils and storage. How to choose appropriate breads in planning menus is a rundown I've never seen in any other book. The 100 or so recipes have stimulating variety:

For a sampling, we've chosen to offer you Rich Sour-Cream Coffee Cake from "Beard on Bread" because Jim says: "It's my favorite of all sweet breads. The apricot glaze gives it a superb color and sheen, and the flavor makes it a rich, delicious accompaniment to coffee or tea."

A note from our own testing. This recipe makes two coffee cakes and calls for baking them in 9-inch tube pans. A friend of mine and I each made a batch and successfully used four different kinds of tube utensils — an angelcake pan, a kugelhof mold, a plain bundt pan and a teflon-lined one. And a note about eating. These coffee cakes have a delightful, porous texture and taste particularly delicious, after glazing and cooling, fresh from the oven. So serve one the day you bake it and save the other for later feasting.

RICH SOUR-CREAM COFFECAKE

For the Dough:
4 packages active dry yeast
½ cup granulated sugar
½ cup warm water (100 to 115 degrees, approximately)
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon oil
½ cup cold milk
1 cup sour cream
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
3 egg yolks
3 sticks (1½ cups) softened sweet butter
5 to 6 cups all-purpose flour
For the Filling:
2 tablespoons melted sweet butter
½ cup brown or white sugar mixed with 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ to ½ cup currants, presoaked, preferably in brandy, for 1 hour
¼ cup finely chopped nuts
For the Glaze:
1 one-pound jar apricot jam or preserves
1 tablespoon brandy, cointreau, or Grand Marnier

Dissolve the yeast and ¼ cup of the sugar in the lukewarm water in a large bowl. Stir in the remaining ¼ cup of sugar, salt, milk, sour cream, lemon juice, and vanilla and mix well. Add the egg yolks and blend. With your fingertips, rapidly work the butter into 5 cups of the flour as you would for pie dough, to produce a dry, meal-like consistency. Add this to the yeast mixture and begin to knead in the bowl, adding more flour if necessary, to make a smooth, elastic dough. Turn out on a lightly floured board and knead 5 to 6 minutes. Shape into a ball and place in a lightly buttered bowl, turning to coat the surface with butter. Cover tightly and refrigerate to let rise for at least 4 hours or until doubled in bulk.

SOUR-CREAM COFFEE CAKE — Made with yeast and glazed with "Beard on Bread" by James Beard.

Remove from the refrigerator, punch down, and turn out on a lightly floured board. (The dough can be kept in the refrigerator for as long as 3 days, in which case it should be punched down twice a day, until ready to roll out.)

Divide the dough in half, and roll out each piece into a rectangle about 10 by 14 inches. Brush each rectangle with melted butter, and sprinkle with the brown or white sugar and cinnamon. Over this sprinkle the drained currants and then the finely chopped nuts.

Gently press the filling into the dough with the rolling pin. Roll up from the wide end, jelly-roll 1 fashion. Heavily butter two 9-inch tube pans. Carefully fit the rolls into the pans so that the ends of the dough join. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven 45 to 55 minutes, until they are golden brown and give off a hollow sound when rapped with the knuckles. Let cool for 15 minutes in the pans, then invert on a rack. Meanwhile, melt the apricot jam over low heat. Add the brandy, Cointreau, or Grand Marnier, and blend.

DAVID C. SIX

Six, Looker elevated by 1st National Bank

David C. Six and David G. Looker were elevated to new positions Monday when the First National Bank board of directors held its annual reorganizational meeting. The first board meeting of the year followed the annual shareholders meeting.

Six, vice president and manager of the Washington Square office of the bank, was promoted to vice president and director of marketing. Looker, assistant vice president, was named to the position vacated by Six.

ALBERT R. Bryant was re-elected president of the board of directors, and other officers named were: Glenn R. Hemsworth, first vice president; J. William Wallace, executive vice president; Robert W. Tice, vice president and cashier; Robert E. Harper, assistant cashier; Robert E. English, loan officer; and Madeline D. Ebert, administrative officer.

Elected to the board of directors during the shareholders meeting were J. Roush Burton, Walter C. Driesbach, Jack M. Hagerty, Lowell M. Hayes, Emerson Marting, Jesse L. Persinger, Mark J. Schaeper, Edward C. Vollette, Hemsworth and Bryant.

Bryant told shareholders that the bank reached all-time highs in loans and total resources during 1973, making the year a satisfactory one.

Ex-guardsmen tells of KSU incident

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A former member of the Ohio National Guard said he told a federal grand jury Monday that guardsmen were in danger when they confronted students during an antiwar demonstration at Kent State University May 4, 1970.

Charles W. Dodson of North Madison told newsmen he testified that the students were throwing rocks and that while the guardsmen were "not in danger of being killed, there was danger of bodily harm."

He said he was not hit by the rocks, "but I dodged a few of them."

Four students were killed and nine wounded by National Guard gunfire, which ended four days of demonstrations by Kent State students protesting U.S. military involvement in Cambodia.

Dodson, 32, was a specialist fourth class in Company A, 145th Infantry, one of the units from which the shots came, but he said he wasn't among the guardsmen who fired.

He also said he testified that he didn't hear an order to fire but told newsmen, "That doesn't mean there wasn't one." He said he was on the end of the line of guardsmen and that "I heard the order to cease fire."

Dodson said he was one of the guardsmen who detained Terrence Norman, an undercover agent on the campus, after Norman turned his revolver over to campus police following the shooting.

There have been reports that Norman fired his gun, but Norman and police have denied that the weapon was fired. Dodson said he heard no comment from Norman one way or the other.

Norman was questioned by the 23-member grand jury early in its investigation but refused to discuss his appearance with newsmen.

Dodson, who sells real estate and drives a truck, said he left the National Guard about a month after the Kent State incident.

He was one of about six men who testified Monday as the jury began its fourth week of the probe. The others refused to identify themselves or discuss their appearances. An attorney said they were guardsmen and confirmed that they testified but declined to give their names to newsmen.

The National Guard was sent to Kent State by then-Gov. James A. Rhodes after a Reserve Officer Training Corps building on the campus was burned during a nighttime demonstration two days before the fatal confrontation.

A special Ohio grand jury called by Rhodes to investigate the shooting exonerated the guardsmen, finding that they had reason to believe their lives were in danger.

The 25 indictments the jury returned were dismissed later and a federal judge ordered the jury's report destroyed.

A presidential commission which investigated the shootings described them as "unnecessary, unwarranted and inexcusable."

The Federal Bureau of Investigation never made public a lengthy report on its probe of the incident.

The Justice Department ordered the federal grand jury probe late last year and the jury was convened Dec. 18. Department attorneys directing the investigation have declined to identify the witnesses called for discuss other aspects of the jury's proceedings.

Crop survey data released today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Results of a farm survey showing how 1974 crop production is lining up with government predictions is due for release today by the Agriculture Department.

The report includes farmer planting intentions for corn and other crops to be planted this spring. It is based on surveys made among producers in 35 states, which account for about 97 per cent of the crop output.

The survey, which reflects planting intentions as of Jan. 1, is the first comprehensive study by USDA of 1974 crop production.

Commodities to be covered include 1974 crops of corn, upland cotton, soybeans, durum and other types of spring wheat, oats, barley, sorghum and flaxseed.

The report does not include production estimates, only figures showing how many acres farmers intend to plant of various crops. Department officials, however, already have made "projected" calculations for 1974 plantings and harvest production.

In the case of corn, for example, USDA has projected 1974 plantings at 75.5 million acres nationally, nearly six per cent above the 1973 plantings of 71.6 million.

Based on that, according to department analysts, the 1974 corn crop could be a record of more than 6.35 billion bushels. The latest estimate for 1973 corn output, announced last week, is more than 5.64 billion, the current record.

Another key figure in today's report is for durum and other spring wheat. The winter crop, planted last fall, has been estimated for harvest next summer at a record 1.5 billion bushels. The experts think spring wheat production will add another 500 million and boost this year's crop to a record 2.0 billion bushels.

According to USDA projections, the 1974 soybean crop will be down slightly from last year's record, as many farmers turn more heavily to corn, cotton and some other high-demand crops.

The soybean projection calls for 54 million planted acres this spring, down from 57.3 million seeded for 1973 harvest.

Although important in making new calculations on possible 1974 crop production, the report today still is based on surveys among farmers months in advance of when many will clinch final plans.

An updated report on 1974 planting intentions will be issued by USDA on March 16.

Traffic Court

All of the traffic cases scheduled for Municipal Court Monday were filed by the Ohio Highway Patrol, all but three of which were speeding violations.

Pearl E. Self, Sr., 64, Old Springfield Rd., pleaded guilty to driving while his operator's license was under revocation and was fined $100 in addition to being sentenced to two days in jail by Judge Reed M. Winegardner.

Ronald D. Yahn, 39, Leesburg, forfeited bond of $62 when he failed to appear in court on a charge of driving an overloaded truck.

Billy G. Parrott, 37, Morrow, Ga., forfeited $25 bond on a charge of operating a tractor-trailer without a valid tax permit.

Persons scheduled to appear on speeding charges were:

Fined:
Harold T. Shelton, 19, Hillsboro, $27, and Randall Richardson, 28, Circleville, $12.

Bond forfeitures:
Eugene P. Brubach, 60, Cincinnati, $24; Loretta J. Jenkins, 26, Mount Sterling, $21; Richard A. Grondalski, 25, Greenbelt, Md., $31; Gary L. Corson, 31, of 723 E. Paint St., $21; Dale L. Cowman, 18, of 720 John St., $28; Ottis C. Fredrick, 51, Hillsboro, $23; Patsy A. Darling, 40, of 1020 N. North St., $34; Lois A. Yahn, 38, of 703 Harrison St., $18.

Tony R. Sword, 21, of 706 Campbell St., $26; Larry W. Skelly, 26, Princeton, Fla., $21; Kim E. Martsof, 18, South Bend, Ind., $18; James E. Porter, 35, Franklin, $27; Floretta Brown, 37, Mount Sterling, $24; and William H. Arthur, 37, of 4 Colonial Court, $24.

Officials probing apparent suicide

HILLSBORO — Highland County officials are still looking into the Saturday death of a man who apparently shot himself as he stood in front of his burning home.

Thomas W. Wood, 41, was found dead of apparently self-inflicted gunshot wound when volunteer firemen and sheriff's deputies responded to the fire call.

Coroner Dr. Paul W. Terrell Monday made a public plea for information about the dead man that might lead to locating relatives.

Wood's house was destroyed by the fire, along with a house trailer, an outbuilding, a van and most of his personal belongings. The home was located on Ohio 506, about two miles west of Carmel.

Charges dismissed in court hearings

Charges filed against two local men were dismissed at the request of the plaintiff in Municipal Court Monday. After reviewing the evidence, Judge Reed M. Winegardner deemed the requests for dismissal to be proper and assessed courts costs to the plaintiffs.

A charge of check fraud against Charles K. Tucker Jr., 38, of 932 Millwood Ave., was dropped when it was determined that the check was written by the defendant in good faith.

Larry E. Woods, 26, of 1024 Broadway, was cleared of a charge of criminal mischief when the judge ruled that the property damage which prompted the charge had been unintentional.

WSHS graduate is honored at Ohio Dominican

COLUMBUS — Miss Susan E. Essman, of Washington C.H., a senior at Ohio Dominican College, Columbus, was named to the Court of the Queen for the college's second annual athletic alumni homecoming, Saturday.

Ohio Dominican is a fully-accredited liberal arts college of 1000 students. Miss Essman was recognized during half-time activities of the Saturday afternoon Ohio Dominican-Cedarville college basketball game. The Queen, Judy Silon, a Bridgeport junior, and her court reigned during the dinner-dance Saturday night at the Jai-Lai in Columbus.

Miss Essman, a home economics major, is the daughter of Mrs. Virginia Essman, 422 E. Temple St. A 1970 graduate of Washington Senior High School, she was a member of future Teachers Association, of Y-Teens, Pep Club, and the Band, while a high school student.

At Ohio Dominican she has served as secretary for Circle K, has been named to the Dean's List for academic achievement - a 3.5 grade average out of a possible 4 point. She is a member of the ODC Student Home Economics Association.

Kiwanis holds business meet

The Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club held its monthly board of directors meeting Monday night in the Lafayette Inn.

Routine business matters were taken care of and the secretary's and treasurer's reports were accepted.

Howard Ford reminded members of the upcoming 10-W Division Council meeting which will be held at Lincoln Lodge, Columbus. Charles F. Moldenhauer, Kiwanis District Governor, will be the guest speaker.

Plans are being completed for Kiwanis Club members to deliver and pickup library books for Carnegie Public Library to Fayette County area nursing homes and convalescent centers, according to Guy Foster. Mrs. Kristine Amsbary, librarian, is coordinating the project.

President George Gibbs called attention to next week's program in which Dan Davis, of Columbus, director of the Columbus Suicide Prevention Agency, will be the featured speaker.

Ora Burdge and Ken Hughes were inducted into membership by Richard Maddux.

Phone pioneer

Malone dies

WATERVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Lester J. Malone, Director of the statewide operations for the Ohio Chapter of Telephone Pioneers of America from 1948 to 1960, died Sunday. He was 78.

Malone, joined Ohio Bell as a wire chief at Toledo in 1921 and held a number of plant department positions at Toledo and Sandusky until 1947 when he was appointed to the staff of the personnel department at Ohio Bell's corporate headquarters in Cleveland. He retired in 1960.

Services will be held Wednesday at Rosary Cathedral in Toledo.

GEORGE MONTGOMERY

PIQUA — George Montgomery, manager of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce from 1967-1969, and more recently manager of the Piqua Chamber of Commerce for the past four years, has accepted a position in Springfield, it was announced today.

Montgomery will soon join the Springfield Chamber of Commerce as manager of economic and industrial development. The 34-year-old Montgomery was approached by the Springfield Chamber in November concerning the newly-created position. His duties will include the development of a non-profit industrial park, supervision of a manufacturing safety program and general community improvement.

HE IS a 1956 graduate of Washington High School and had been employment supervisor with the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services in Washington C.H. for three years before becoming manager of the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce in 1967, replacing Fred Blocher.

Montgomery had served as chief of rescue under the Civil Defense program here as well as being a volunteer fireman and special deputy sheriff.

He and his family left Washington C.H. in 1969 when he accepted the position of manager with the Piqua Chamber of Commerce. A two-year-old son, Michael, has joined the Montgomery family since they left Washington C.H. Montgomery and his wife, Sharon, now have three children, Keith, Nicki and Michael.

More arms aid for Israel seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israel's agreement to pull back its troops on the Suez front is virtually certain to bring some additional U.S. arms shipments to Israel.

No U.S. official has said so publicly, but it is known that the United States delayed major arms commitments to Israel while Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was working out a troop disengagement agreement between the Israelis and the Egyptians.

Israeli dependence on the United States for arms has given this country leverage to assure that the Israeli government would be cooperative, as one American official put it.

While some additional U.S. weapons are expected to flow to Israel in the wake of the Egyptian-Israeli agreement, the United States probably will be in no hurry to meet Israel's full arms requirements.

That is because some of the most complex and tough Arab-Israeli negotiations are yet to come, involving possible disengagement and withdrawal on the Syrian front and, beyond that, a permanent resolution of long-standing territorial questions in the Middle East.

Thus, there are indications the United States will want to keep its leverage on Israel for those difficult future negotiations. This could mean that arms shipments could be slowed again if the Israelis became balky.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has been here twice since the October war to push for U.S. approval of a long shopping list of planes, tanks, missiles, electronic equipment and other materiel.

The United States sent about $1 billion of military hardware to Israel during and after the 18-day war, mostly to replace battle losses. This equipment included more than 90 F4 Phantoms and A4 Skyhawk jets and several hundred tanks.

But Israel claims that it needs much more than that to regain a military balance with Egypt and Syria, whose armed forces reportedly have been rebuilt by Russia to greater strength than before the October war.

The additional Israeli arms request is said to total between $2 billion and $2.5 billion, but so far there has been firm U.S. Israeli agreement on only some of this request.

Congress has approved $2.2 billion for Israeli military aid, but President Nixon is required by law to justify to the House and Senate any commitment beyond $1.5 billion.

Meanwhile, there is no evidence the Russians have applied any comparable pressure on the Arabs to come to an accord with the Israelis and defuse the Middle East controversy.

U.S. intelligence officials say that Russian arms continue to move into Egypt and Syria.

Plans for AFS weekend here reviewed by adult chapter

Various reports, including the announcement of the annual American Field Service (AFS) weekend in March, were heard at a meeting of the Washington Senior High School AFS adult chapter Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Billie Wilson. The meeting was conducted by Mrs. Harold Soldan.

Reports were read and Otis Hess, finance chairman, reported that the project he will head will bring next year's AFS student here, and also send an American abroad to his destination for the summer.

Don Gibbs and Mrs. Phillip French, Washington Senior High School coordinators of the chapter, reported activities when 60 students went carolling through the city and to four nursing homes, and the adult chapter provided snacks following the carolling tour. They also announced the AFS weekend to be March 22-23 for both Miami Trace High School and WSHS chapters. Students will arrive here on Thursday, and stay in various homes. A dance will take place in the Mahan Building on Saturday, when the group will be joined by Rotary Club students in the area as guests. William Pool is chapter chairman of the event.

John Nestor, AFS student president, announced that two meetings for adults will take place. The first one will be an assembly Jan. 28 at WSHS gymnasium, when Keith Stimpert will give a resume concerning his trip to Venezuela last summer, and the other for Feb. 25, also to be held in WSHS gymnasium, for both WSHS and MTHS chapters, when Miss Sheila Gordon and Fernando Martin will be guest speakers.

A nominating committee was appointed by Mrs. Soldan. Pool was appointed chairman, with Rollo Marchant and Billie Wilson. They will present a report of candidates for officers at the next meeting, March 4. Fernando Martin, John Nestor and Tim Morrow, of the WSHS student chapter, met with the above committee.

McKinley tops poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Canton McKinley continues to look as if 1974 is the year the Bulldogs shatter their Ohio high school basketball tournament hex.

Although they've drawn nothing but blanks at winning state tournament titles, the Bulldogs reached another Associated Press ratings milestone Monday.

McKinley, 12-0 this season, became the first school in either football or basketball ever to earn more than 300 points from Ohio sports writers and broadcasters.

The Canton power piled up 306 points, a whopping 162 ahead of Class AAA runnerup Kettering Alter, 12-0. The Bulldogs have led the big school ratings all three weeks of the 1974 AP poll.

The Canton power piled up 306 points, a whopping 162 ahead of Class AAA runnerup Kettering Alter, 12-0. The Bulldogs have led the big school ratings all three weeks of the 1974 AP poll.

The situation is far less stable in Class AA and A.

Akron Manchester led the Class AA ratings the first week, but yielded that honor this week to another unbeaten. Wellsville, Wellsville, 11-0, had 274 points to 267 for Manchester, 13-0 and second this time.

In Class A, Mansfield St. Peter's, which led the first week, regained the top spot from Sebring, the pacesetter last week. St. Peter's had 258 points while Sebring, 10-1, collected 237.

McKinley, in its luckless tournament bids, has reached the regionals or Sweet Sixteen 22 times, the semifinals 13 times and the championship contest on six occasions.

Boardman, upset by Youngstown Mooney, slipped one notch to third place in Class AAA. Springfield North was fourth, Chillicothe fifth, Dayton Dunbar and Cincinnati Elder tied for sixth, Warren Western Reserve eighth, Cincinnati LaSalle ninth and Hamilton Taft a new face in tenth.

In Class AA, Millersburg West Holmes jumped one spot to third, followed by Newark Licking Valley, Ashville Teays Valley, Canton Lehman, Columbus Mohawk, Waverly, Genoa and Louisville Aquinas.

Genoa, off to an 11-1 start, was the lone newcomer in the Class AA top ten.

In Class A, Canal Winchester, 10-1, joined the elite, replacing Peebles in the No. 10 spot.

Lorain Clearview maintained the third position and then, in order, came Gnadenhutzen Indian Valley South, Sidney Lehman, Cleveland Lutheran East, Pittsburg Franklin-Monroe, Marion Pleasant and Greenwich South Central.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Here's how a statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters rates Ohio high school basketball teams this week for The Associated Press (10 points for first to 1 point for tenth):

- CLASS AAA
1. Canton McKinley, 12-0, 306 points.
  2. Kettering Alter, 12-0, 244.

MT varsity girls win

The Miami Trace girls varsity basketball team posted an opening season victory Monday evening 44-36 over Circleville. The reserve squad dropped it's first game 12-6 to the Tigers.

Leading the Panther varsity were Cindy Hoppes with 17 points and Louvicia Woodfork with 11 counters. Circleville was paced by Sue Crist with 10 points.

Ball State coach ex-Cincinnati star

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Only a handful among the 4,560 fans sitting in utter disbelief in Ball State University's Men's Gym the other night knew the real drama behind the scenes.

Ball State whipped the University of Cincinnati, ranked 20th in the nation, 99-82.

The man working the miracle on the Ball State bench was Jim Holstein, a Cincinnati star in the 1950s who had sought the Cincinnati coaching job two years ago. Cincinnati selected Gale Catlett, an assistant coach from Kentucky.

Cincinnati had just fired Tay Baker, now coach at cross-town Xavier University.

Ironically, Ball State which had successfully courted Holstein away from St. Joseph in Indiana, was also dealing with Catlett.

"You know," said Ball State sports information director Earl Yestingmeier, "Gale Catlett was No. 2, our top choice after Jim Holstein."

"Listen," said Holstein, "I'd do anything in the world for the University of Cincinnati. I owe a lot to the university. It did a lot for me," said the Hamilton, Ohio native.

But Holstein said he was still incredulous about his interview with Cincinnati for the coaching job there. "They asked me in," he said. "Bear in mind I already had been interviewed by three people at Ball State, the athletic director, the head of the physical education department and the administrator who was over both of them."

"I couldn't believe what I walked into at Cincinnati. There were 18 people in this room for the interview — at least 18, there may have been more. I counted 18."

"We talked for an hour and I was flabbergasted. Not once in the hour did anybody talk about the basketball program."

"I was asked questions like, 'Are you going to make the players cut their hair?' and, 'What about the players' social affairs?'"

"I couldn't believe it."

"Finally, I had enough and I asked, 'You have just fired a man — Tay Baker — whose worst act was to finish 17-9. Can you tell me why?'"

"When nobody answered, I excused myself and left."

Holstein said he then accepted the job at Ball State.

"I have no regrets," said Holstein. "It is ironic, isn't it," he said.

WFL draft under way in New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Memphis was expected to select either All America quarterback David Jaynes or running back Woody Green of Arizona State today as the No. 1 choice in the fledgling World Football League's draft of top collegiate prospects.

"I'm leaning toward Jaynes but am heavily considering Green," said Steve Arnold, head man of the Memphis franchise, on the eve of the 12-team league's first move into the domain of big league football which, until now, has belonged exclusively to the established National Football League.

After Memphis opened the draft, New England chose second and then Florida, Toronto, Birmingham, Ala., New York, Southern California, Philadelphia, Hawaii, Chicago, Washington, D.C., and Detroit chose in that order. For the second round, the order of selection was reversed, with Detroit choosing first.

Chicago indicated its top pick would be Bill Koller, a defensive tackle from Montana State. Owner Tom Origer said that Koller, selected Most Valuable Player in the Senior Bowl, has "expressed the desire to play for us here in Chicago."

The draft was set to last six rounds with 72 players being selected.

Marty Brennaman new voice of Reds

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Marty Brennaman, radio voice of the Virginia Squires for the past four years, has been named play-by-play announcer of the Cincinnati Reds' the National League club announced today.

A native of Virginia, Brennaman was selected over 200 applicants, including a number of veteran major league announcers, the Reds said.

Brennaman, 31, succeeds Al Michaels, who now heads the San Francisco Giants broadcasting team.

Vanderbilt routs Tennessee in 82-65 basketball clash

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Patience is a virtue, and for Vanderbilt so is passing.

"Patience and passing were the key to our victory," said Vanderbilt Coach Roy Skinner following the seventh-ranked Commodores' 82-65 college basketball rout of Tennessee Monday night. "We took our time to see what they were doing and then attacked."

It took over half the game for Vanderbilt to size up Tennessee as the Volunteers sliced a seven-point half-time deficit to three points, 45-42, with 15:10 left. But then the Commodores went on a 13-2 scoring spree and Tennessee wasn't heard from again.

Sophomore Jeff Fosnes with 20 points and Jan van Breda Kolf with 18 did the most adjusting to the score, leading Vanderbilt to its 13th victory this season in 14 attempts.

Notre Dame is No. 1

NEW YORK (AP) — "We're very pleased to be ranked No. 1. It's terrific," said Notre Dame basketball Coach Digger Phelps Monday night.

"But we can't afford to relax. We've still got 16 games ahead of us."

Phelps and the Fighting Irish, fresh from Saturday's thrilling, come-from-behind 71-70 decision over mighty UCLA, claimed the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press weekly poll today. It marked the first time in three years that the Bruins have been knocked out of the No. 1 position.

Whether or not the Irish can stay on top will depend largely on Saturday night's rematch against UCLA in Los

Simpson, Maxwell winner

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Buffalo's O. J. Simpson was asked what he could do for an encore to his 2,003-yard record National Football League season of 1973.

"I hope to get my team to the playoffs," said the articulate 26-year-old former All-American from Southern California.

Simpson talked about himself and the Bills before accepting the Maxwell Award Monday night as the outstanding professional football player of the year.

"We came a long way this year. The Buffalo Bills had not had a winning season in about seven or eight years, and this year we won nine games and felt we should have won at least eleven," Simpson said.

Simpson shared the dias with Penn State's John Cappelletti, who was presented with the Maxwell Club's trophy as the outstanding college football player of 1973. It went along with his Heisman Trophy and All-American status.

Cappelletti is awaiting the Jan. 29 NFL draft to find out what next season has to offer the running back from Upper Darby, Pa., a Philadelphia suburb.

Simpson, who carried the ball 332 times for his 2,003 yards, became the second player to win both the pro and college Maxwell awards. He took college honors in 1968.

Kentucky led 44-39 at the half but Alabama rallied quickly, taking the lead two minutes into the second half and holding on to it the rest of the way.

In other major action, Cincinnati routed Northeastern Illinois 109-73; Austin Peay clubbed East Tennessee State 80-67; Oral Roberts romped over Lamar 109-75, and Southern Illinois shaded Florida State 77-73.

Cincinnati broke a school record by dropping in 51 field goals and Al Batts, who had a game-high 24 points, became the fifth leading scorer in the school's history.

Angeles. Meanwhile, Phelps has been trying to keep his club from looking ahead. Notre Dame plays at Kansas tonight and returns home to play St. Francis, Pa., Thursday night.

The Irish, 10-0, collected 36 first-place votes and 990 total points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters.

UCLA, which saw its record 88-game winning streak snapped, picked up 15 first-place votes and 944 points. The last time the Bruins dropped out of first place in the AP poll was Jan. 26th, 1971, following an 89-82 loss to Notre Dame. Marquette took over the No. 1 position that week, lost it to UCLA two weeks later, and it's been the Bruins ever since.

North Carolina State, 11-1, held onto the No. 3 position with victories over Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina-Charlotte. The Wolfpack picked up 782 points.

North Carolina, 12-1 after beating Wake Forest and Duke, moved up from fifth to fourth place with 651 points. Maryland, with wins over Navy and Fordham to go along with its loss to North Carolina State, dropped one place to fifth with 649 points and a 10-2 record.

Marquette, 14-1, held onto the No. 6 spot, after dumping Butler and Fordham. Vanderbilt, 12-1, moved up one step to seventh after whipping Georgia and Auburn. Providence, 13-2, dropped one notch to No. 8 despite victories over Massachusetts and St. Joseph's, Pa.

Alabama, 10-2, advanced one place to ninth after topping LSU and Mississippi State. Long Beach State, 12-1, took the

Lion eighth graders post first victory of season

The Washington C.H. eighth grade marked their first win of the season Monday evening 40-37 over the Hillsboro Indians. Preceding the eighth grade game in Hillsboro the seventh grade clipped the Indians 36-35 and at the same time at the Washington junior high school the freshman were taking in on the chin 46-34, also to Hillsboro.

All year long the eighth grade have been sputtering but Monday evening the boys from the bench made the difference. Dennis Dunn playing his first game blocked six shots, Mark Belles made a timely basket in the first half, Dwane Six pulled down key rebounds and Devik Hargo came from the splinters in the fourth quarter to make four of five foul shots to put the Lions ahead.

In the seventh grade squeaker Fred Jones and Tim Upthegrove were high point men with eight counters apiece.

The freshman were headed by Sam McClendon with 14 points and Scott Johnson with 12.

Vietnam bonus now step closer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— First payments of Ohio's Vietnam era Veterans' bonus moved a step closer Monday with the appointment of three administrators to handle the paperwork.

The State Sinking Fund Commission, with Gov. John J. Gilligan sitting in personally, appointed John W. Bush to the $22,500-a-year post of director of the Ohio Vietnam Conflict Compensation Fund.

Bush, a Portsmouth native long prominent in Ohio and national Democratic politics, is a former long time member of the Interstate Commerce Commission who served as its chairman in 1966.

He also was state commerce director during the administration of former Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle. Bush's residence now is in Columbus, but he serves in Washington as transportation adviser for the U.S. Senate Commerce Committee.

Gilligan nominated Bush, whose appointment by the five-member commission was approved 4-1. Secretary of State Ted W. Brown cast the dissenting vote. Brown is the only Republican on the state fiscal agency.

The other members are State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson, who served as chairman; State Treasurer Gertrude W. Donahey, and Atty. Gen. William J. Brown. The attorney general was authorized by the commission to seek out bond and legal counsel for the fund.

The other appointees are Major Joseph C. Bailey of Reynoldsburg, a veteran of more than 30 years in the U.S. Air Force, as assistant director at $20,020 a year, and Leslie Springer of Columbus, a former state tax official, as personnel director at $17,004 annually.

With the administrative machinery now intact, and the needed implementing legislation at hand, officials say they hope the first applications for payment of the bonuses can go out within the next few weeks.

The Ohio House votes Wednesday on a bill spelling out authority for veterans wishing to do so to claim double their bonuses in educational benefits. Maximum payments for book, tuition, and fees would be $1,000, available only to those veterans who otherwise would qualify for the $500 maximum cash bonus.

In other words, a veteran could get twice his cash bonus for education purposes, whatever amount his cash benefit would be up to but not exceeding $500, it was explained. The bonuses are based on amounts of time spent in Vietnam, other overseas assignments, and domestic duty, at $20 a month, $15 a month, and $10, respectively.

Metzenbaum takes seat in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland's Howard Metzenbaum became a full-fledged senator Monday after the Senate rejected proposals for an investigation of his tax problems.

The Ohio Democrat was sworn in to fill the unexpired term of former Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, who resigned to become U.S. attorney general.

The Senate voted 53 to 23 against a proposed Rules Committee investigation into claims Metzenbaum owed the government $118,000 in back taxes.

Ohio Gov. John Gilligan appointed the 56-year-old former state senator to the post after Saxbe resigned.

Senate Majority leader Mike Mansfield had proposed Metzenbaum be seated pending a two-week investigation into an Internal Revenue Service claim the new senator owed the taxes for the years 1967 and 1968. Mansfield offered his resolution to head off a longer probe asked for by Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb.

Both proposals were killed when the Senate voted on a motion made by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. D-N.C., who contended the Senate had no legal basis to deny Metzenbaum a seat.

The Ohio Democrat has deposited the $118,000 with the IRS while he contests the claim in the courts.

Hamilton County budget boost noted

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A 1974 county budget, which calls for $11 million more spending than last year, was to be presented to Hamilton County commissioners today.

The $90.2 million budget does not need to be approved until March 1. A series of hearings are scheduled before adoption.

The budget was drafted by County Administrator R. A. Anderegg.

Board considers land annexation

Fayette County Commissioners Monday accepted a petition for annexation of some land to the city of Washington C.H. and scheduled a hearing on it.

Larry Chrisman is seeking to have three northside lots, partially bounded by Gibbs and Earl avenues and Ohio 41-N, annexed to the city. The land includes all of lots 407, 408 and 409 of the Washington Improvement Co. Addition.

Commissioners will hold a hearing on the annexation at 2 p.m. March 25 in their office.

In other action Monday, the Commissioners approved a request from County Recorder Lorie Armbrust, allowing her to attend an executive meeting of the Ohio Records Association Jan. 24 in Columbus. Mrs. Armbrust is president of that organization this year.

County dog warden Reginald (Chink) Davis submitted 30 reports.

Floating franc hurting Europe

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The decision by France to float its franc, which means its devaluation, has the appearance of a singular, isolated move, but it could set off a chain reaction of undesirable consequences.

It breaks faith with those countries in the European Economic Community which, for the sake of continental monetary stability and integration, had agreed to maintain a fixed ratio of relative currency values.

In stepping out of this mutual arrangement, France offers other EEC nations the rationale and maybe the incentive to do the same, threatening a series of competitive devaluations by nations seeking an economic advantage over their neighbors.

A devaluation, it should be remembered, might be embarrassing to some degree, but the negative aspect is overwhelmed by the ensuing trade advantage. It permits a nation to almost painlessly put its exports on sale at a discount.

France no doubt had this in mind when it decided to free its currency from the agreed upon anchor and let it drift where the market takes it, which most likely is down. It wants to correct an ominous trade deficit.

Earlier this month, the French finance minister, Valéry Giscard d'Estaing reported the country's trade balance, which had been expected to show a surplus of eight billion francs, would likely show instead a deficit of 18 billion.

This turnabout in French fortunes is almost solely the result of rising energy prices, a problem that all other industrialized nations share. Because of this, some monetary authorities fear a domino affect.

When a nation's export position declines, as France's has, it almost certainly follows that the attractiveness of its currency declines also, simply because it is considered less secure as an investment.

In order to prevent these temporary deficits from gyrating currency values, the industrialized nation's of the post-World War II world agreed to step into the market themselves, buying up weak currency and maintaining its price.

City Council agenda thin

Only one piece of legislation appears on the agenda for Washington C.H. City Council at its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the City Office Building.

City Manager Dan Wolford said Council members will consider an emergency ordinance authorizing the city to enter into an agreement with Fayette County for keeping prisoners.

Council members, without a doubt, will be discussing the taxicab service in Washington C.H., which was discontinued effective Jan. 1. Council members did not award the city's taxicab franchise at a special workshop meeting last Wednesday, and a decision is expected to be reached on restoring taxicab service here.

County receives minimum funds

Fayette County received the minimum $12,500 allocation in local government funds for January, according to the state Auditor's office. The Auditor's office has established the monthly minimum in accordance with state law, which guarantees each county at least $150,000 in such funds each year. County figures are obtained by taking 3.5 per cent of state collections of sales, income and corporation taxes each month.

Shares of surrounding counties in the $3,402,505.38 distributed in January included: Clinton, $12,500; Greene, $22,458.59; Highland, $12,500; Madison, $12,500; Pickaway, $12,500; and Ross, $12,500.

Area's elderly aided by grant

Fayette County residents will be among those benefiting from a $5,000 grant to the Ross County Community Action Commission for a Supplemental Security Income (SSI) alert program.

The program is designed to locate older people eligible for additional income under the new SSI program that began Jan. 1.

Fayette, Ross, Pickaway, Pike, Highland and Vinton Counties will share in the allocation.

SHERIFF

MONDAY — Gary N. Webb, 32, Rt. 5, Franklin County warrant for non-support; Hugh P. Morarity, 21, of 619 Wilson St., speeding; Rollo E. Stills, 19, Xenia, speeding.

POLICE

MONDAY — Larry E. Woods, 26, of 1024 Broadway St., criminal mischief; William W. Brunning, 66, of Columbiana, disorderly conduct by intoxication; Jane Simpson, 30, of 825 Lincoln Dr., red light; George M. Hollis, 21, of 619 Campbell St., absent without leave from the U.S. Marines Corps.

Sheep output declines again

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's sheep industry, on a downhill trend for many years, showed another decline in 1973, according to the Agriculture Department.

As of Jan. 1, a USDA inventory shows, there were 2,660,000 sheep and lambs being fed for the slaughter market in 26 major producing states. That was down seven per cent from a year earlier.

Wool production from U.S. sheep, an indication of the size of the animal inventory, has declined annually for 13 years and is expected to drop again in 1974.

The department later this month will issue an annual inventory of all sheep and lambs on farms.

Burglary, larceny reports investigated by deputies

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported the breaking and entering of a Greenfield area residence and a stolen truck battery. City police reported property damage which totaled $100 and a bicycle larceny.

Thieves gained entry to the William K. Boldman residence, near Greenfield, by forcing the rear door, sometime Sunday. Once inside, files and a china cabinet were rifled, and $300, mostly in change, was taken. Sheriff's deputies estimated $175 worth of damage was done, along with the theft of the $300.

A truck battery was stolen from a truck owned by Ollie Iden, Bloomingburg, sometime between Saturday and Monday, sheriff's deputies report.

The three-by-five foot electric sign of the Twin Acres Motel, 1025 Dayton Ave., was broken by a beer bottle, sometime between noon Saturday and 7 p.m., Sunday.

Police estimated the sign's damage at $100.

A blue, Huffy, bicycle with a flat front tire, was taken from the James Lemming residence, 428 Third St., sometime last week, police report.

Lobstering 'good life', grandmother of 9 says

SOUTH THOMASTON,
Maine (AP) — Elsie Ilvonen, a grandmother nine times over, is one of Maine's few fulltime lobsterwomen. And, she says she believes in
"Sisu".

The Finnish word for intestinal fortitude, "Sisu" is the name of the lobster boat
Elsie works with her husband,
Carl, 10 to 12 hours each day
during lobstering season.

Elsie, around 50, has been Carl's "sternman" for the last nine years.

"Some days it's like a vacation with pay because it's so beautiful," she said. "Other times, when it's horrible, it's hard work all day."

"I don't know what I'd rather do than lobster. It's a good life and I'm glad I can share it with my husband."
But the 5-foot-4 seafarer

says Carl, a Finn, has plenty of "sisu," and that means busy days on board. She works
the rear deck, tending the main, and baiting and cleaning traps.

"We don't sit down all day
... but time goes by fast
because we are so busy all the time," she said.

The traps are set two on a line. Carl picks up the buoy
and runs the line through the hauling gear, then slides the main trap down a washboard
to Elsie.

Each measures their own
catch, baits up, cleans the trap and plugs the powerful
"crusher" claw on the lobsters.

ELSIE SAID she started
stalking the tasty crustacean
about nine years ago in a 16-foot outboard boat. One of her daughters uses the same boat
now when she goes lobstering
after school and during summers.

The fisherwoman said she finds it hard to talk about the natural beauties surrounding her livelihood.

"I think poetic thoughts, but
I don't have the words for them," she said. "You can't say them anyway or it sounds
maudlin."

But she does cite some practical reasons for continuing her physically demanding occupation.

"It's one of the few businesses where you can still be your own master; the
harder you work, the more
you can make and the more satisfaction you get."

When will she quit?
"I keep retiring every night
... but I'll keep going on,"
she said.

It comes down to "sisu" for Elsie.

Farmers are cool to administration

CHICAGO (AP) —
Wallace's Farmer, a leading rural magazine, says that farm disillusionment with the Nixon administration is at an all-time high.

In an editorial by F.R.
Jimson, the magazine says polls show that less than one farmer in five thinks
President Nixon is doing a good job handling agricultural affairs. The confidence of eastern Corn Belt farmers in the President's handling of general economy is even lower
at 15 per cent.

"Supply shortages and the fear of government interference have added to the frustration and uncertainty,"
says Jimson.

Opening lead - ten of diamonds.

Bad luck is often a factor in the outcome of a hand, but there are cases where bad luck can be overcome by good management.

Here is a typical case. Let's say you're in six spades and West leads a diamond. At first sight the only loser appears to be a heart, but when you win the diamond with the king and play the ace of trumps, East shows out and your stock plummets sharply. Seemingly, the slam must go down one.

But if you have the proper attitude, you start to think in terms of how the hand can be made despite the foul trump break. And if you think about the matter hard enough, you come up with the right answer. The hand is not as hopeless as it looks, because there is a possibility of making the slam if the rest of the cards are well placed.

There is no way of escaping the trump loser, so you set your sights on avoiding the heart loser. It may require some luck to meet this goal, but if you don't buy a ticket you can't expect to win the raffle. What you do is pray that West was dealt the king of hearts and that you can eventually force him to lead from it.

In line with this, you cash the A-K of clubs and ruff a club. Next you cash the A-Q of diamonds and ruff a diamond. Finally you cash the K-Q of trumps and exit from dummy with a trump.

West is compelled to win the trump and, with only two cards left—the K-9 of hearts—he must lead one. It does not matter whether he plays the nine or the king—in either case you lose no heart tricks and make the slam.

Antihistamines Not Dangerous

Can antihistamine drugs be taken indefinitely without causing any harm?

I have a year-round allergy and I have been taking these pills for many years.

Dear Miss N.: Let me first explain that histamine is a substance produced in many tissues and cells in the body. It plays an important role in body growth, secretions in the stomach, and in the blood circulation.

Excess amounts of histamine are found in the blood of people with asthma, hives, hay fever, and other allergic conditions.

Antihistamine drugs were created to counteract the excess histamines in allergic people, and thus reduce their annoying symptoms.

These antihistamine drugs are readily excreted from the body in the urine. It is for this very reason that sustained doses are effective.

Nevertheless, I do believe that a re-evaluation of your allergic profile should be done. Perhaps the exact offender that produces your year-round allergy may be found and removed. Then you would be spared the need for such constant medication.

Does nicotinic acid have any relation to the nicotine in cigarettes?

Dear Mr. G.: No, there is no relationship. Nicotinic acid, or niacin, is a valuable vitamin found mostly in liver, meat, fish, yeast, and whole grain cereals.

Its complete absence in the diet is responsible for the disease pellagra.

The nicotine in cigarettes is a poisonous substance found in all parts of the tobacco plant.

I saw a report of acid in my urine. Does this have any special meaning?

Dear Mr. S.: The acid and alkaline content of the urine may vary from day to day, even with people in excellent health.

Changes in diet and some medicines can readily alter the acidity of the urine.

Peregrine falcon losing ground, survey discloses

WASHINGTON (AP) — The peregrine falcon, one of the most noble birds of prey, is on the skids. A recent survey under the auspices of the Interior Department and the World Wildlife Fund found only three young birds in 14 nests that might have had 40 to 50 fledglings under normal conditions.

The chief trouble was that DDT and kindred pesticides, taken in by the falcons with their food, caused them to lay thin-shelled eggs which did not hatch. This is true also, the experts say, of other birds of prey.

Another hazard for the birds is the sudden revival of falconry as a sport. Some devotees capture young birds in the wild despite federal and state laws.

On the other hand, four pairs of peregrines in captivity at Cornell University raised 20 young birds last spring.

Ever hear of Mathew B. Brady? Well, he was the photographer who covered America's Civil War. You take a look at this guy's pix and you marvel. Quality was there. And that was some time back. Even Dale Wade wasn't around in those days. But from those early days up to today the better photographers were vitally concerned with how their stuff was processed. And for good reason, this is that quality factor, the "racer's edge". Today's photographer who is shooting Kodak film demands Kodak processing if he's where he can get it. Keep that in mind.

Now there is another processor that will give your precious pictures that "tender loving care." That is you, yourself. Ever think of doing your own color slide processing? More and more local people are getting into the act. It's fun! We have the little inexpensive color slide processing kits here at the shop and they're becoming more and more popular. Think about it. This might be right up your alley. Come in and we'll show you what you have to get to get into the color slide processing business.

Math and science, which are so closely related and interdependent, can be taught simultaneously. Literature, which should be studied in context with the period and location in which it was written, can be combined with a social studies course so that repetitious material might be avoided.

In addition a greater relevance may be seen by the student in some areas where the usefulness of a course can become rather obscure. Division has little intrigue for a student if it is demonstrated as an end in itself, but if it can be taught in immediate contact with the science problems which require a knowledge of division, the student will be much more apt to become interested.

IF REDUNDANCY can be held to a minimum, time can be used more efficiently and new courses, especially those which are oriented to student interest, can be offered as electives.

Ben Roby, junior high principal, who is most directly affected by the proposal is perhaps its staunchest advocate. He is constantly working with students who are "turned off" by the present system, and most strongly senses the need for a more interesting and challenging atmosphere in the middle age level.

Two additional pluses for the proposal are expanded facilities for physical education on the sixth grade level and elimination of a major problem with freshmen who fail one or two courses.

Freshmen who fail one or two of their four subjects have a unique problem, he said. They cannot repeat the course they failed if they move on to the senior high because the course isn't offered there. On the other hand, if they stay at the junior high, they are unable to take the sequel courses to those they passed.

Hugh Rea, elementary coordinator, favors the change because it will ease over crowding some of the elementary schools and might allow for the closing of Sunnyside Elementary School. It has been estimated that closing the school could save up to $25,000 per year for the school system.

Fred Jones, principal at Washington Senior High School, voiced the only reservations to the proposal. He will be most affected by the loss of some of the flexibility which is now enjoyed at high school level. He also wondered how the freshmen would react to the high school environment.

No one can predict exactly how anyone will react to a change in their routine, but the feeling was that the proposal would prove very advantageous.

According to Roby, the program will offer a gradual change in curriculum so as not to overly disturb what the student now expects. "It will be a period of discovery and adjustment for both the students and the faculty. Although some things may not work as well as we hope, we can evaluate them and discard those which prove unnecessary. In the long run we should be able to offer much more than we are offering him now," he said.

THE MINI-WORKSHOP program approved for the senior high will consist of a variety of student interest seminars to be offered the afternoon of Feb. 14. The program is designed to expose students to interests and hobbies in which they might become involved.

The program grew from the enthusiasm of four student representatives to a recent seminar dealing with some of the social difficulties encountered by young adults. The theme of the seminar was that students who become involved in fruitful activities find life more enjoyable.

Students of Washington Senior High School have been asked to participate in the Channel 10 quiz show "In the Know." Three faculty members have become interested in preparing the students for the program, and the board approved the school's request to participate. They are scheduled to oppose Columbus Wehrle.

Some of the offerings for the workshop will be karate, scuba diving, ham radio operation and gourmet cooking.

IN OTHER action the board:

- Set a policy for severance pay at retirement;
- Approved the reimbursement of tuition for advanced study for a number of faculty members;
- Set a policy for attending athletic conferences;
- Renewed the current liability insurance for board members;
- Added Mrs. Fern Miller to the list of substitute teachers;
- Approved the rental of 15 acres of land for farming;
- Approved the rental of the Sunnyside School auditorium to the Lions Club;
- Released a student to attend Miami Trace while accepting a tuition student from the Miami Trace District.

Troy man raises three top hogs at breeder show

Don Gostonsky, of Troy, raised three of the top-selling hogs in Monday afternoon's Ohio Hampshire Swine Breeders Association sale at the Fayette County Fairground.

Gostonsky's bred gilt brought $600 from Bruce Balduff, North Fairfield. That price was higher than the $500 paid for the champion bred gilt, which was consigned by Larry Leffel, New Knoxville, and purchased by Ray Obermyer, Hamilton.

The champion open gilt and the champion boar were also sold by Gostonsky, the former for $400 to Ronald Fielitz, West Unity, and the latter to Allen Kesterm, West Salem, for $320.

The total for 57 hogs sold at the sale was $14,900. Thirty bred gilts brought an average of $342; five registered open gilts were sold for an average of $278; 14 commercial open gilts brought $122 on the average; and eight boars sold for an average of $200 each.

Abortion ruling

Life Committee and its several hundred affiliates throughout the nation.

The group is behind the current lobbying effort in Washington. The national committee has new offices, a larger staff and is planning to spend more than $1 million in 1974. It has established a newsletter with a pilot edition that went to 800,000 persons.

Lader says his group, the largest pro-abortion organization, will be lucky to raise $60,000 in the next six months.

Right to Life groups are supporting a constitutional amendment sponsored by Sen. James L. Buckley, R-Con. N.Y., and now pending before a Senate subcommittee. The proposal would extend the Constitution's protection for "persons" to "all human beings, including their unborn offspring, at every stage of their biological development, irrespective of age, health, function or condition of dependency."

The amendment would effectively ban most abortions, but it contains a clause that would allow one if medically necessary to save a woman's life.

Ten states have passed laws specifying who is qualified to perform abortions, at what stage of pregnancy and on what grounds. They are Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Nebraska, Nevada, North Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, and Utah.

City police reported another hit-skip accident and a minor parking lot accident in which a Washington C.H. man was charged with leaving the scene.

The Wilmington post of the Ohio Highway Patrol reported a minor accident to report in which a Fayette County boy was cited for failure to yield right of way.

Slight damage was reported to a car owned by Faith Baker, 19, of 605 Washington Ave., when it was struck by a hit-skip vehicle while parked in front of the Baker residence, sometime Monday, police reported.

Board to seek bids on hospital vehicle

The Fayette Memorial Hospital authorized seeking of bids for a hospital vehicle and reviewed some recent hospital inspections Monday night in a short meeting.

Hospital Administrator Robert L. Kunz was authorized to seek bids for a staff vehicle, probably a van. It would be used for maintenance, running errands and other hospital business.

Kunz commended the maternity unit, which passed a recent state inspection without a single violation. It was the first violation-free inspection of the maternity section in 24 years.

ANOTHER STATE inspection reviewed dealt with hospital utilization. In other routine matters, the board approved minor changes in their rules and regulations for medical staff privileges and approved two reap-plications for such privileges.

Kunz reported 306 admissions and 328 dismissals during December. Inpatient days totaled 1,888. The average daily census was 60.90. There were 52 births and 196 newborn patient days were recorded. Ten people died at the hospital during the month.

The hospital was 70 per cent full during the month, and medical and surgical patient facilities were 78 per cent full. The average length of stay per patient was 5.75 days, and it was 6.72 days for medical and surgical patients, below the national average.

There were 685 X-rays taken, 4,037 laboratory tests, 971 emergency room visits, 282 physical therapy treatments, and 613 inhalation therapy treatments. Major operations totaled 52 and minor operations amounted to 73.

Federal funds committed

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Housing and Urban Development Secretary James T. Lynn says $6.6 billion in federal funds will be committed in 1974 to stimulate the slumping home building industry.

The money will be used to guarantee construction of 200,000 housing units at a belowmarket interest rate to the consumer of 7½ per cent, Lynn told the National Association of Home Builders on Monday.

Lynn also said the maximum interest rates for FHA and VA insured mortgages were being cut from 8½ to 8¼ per cent, effective today.

Lynn said the interest rates could be reduced even further:

He said the Federal National Mortgage Association will assist in the construction of 200,000 single and multifamily units by providing low-interest mortgages totaling up to $6.6 billion.

The mortgage must be for new construction and bear an interest rate of 7½ per cent under the program. The net effect means the government will pay the difference between 7½ and 8¼ per cent.

Home builders president George C. Martin called a news conference after the announcement to criticize the program as inadequate.

Martin said it will not attract enough buyers to help the housing situation unless more and deeper cuts in interest rates are made.

The Louisville, Ky., builder said President Nixon must restore housing as a top national priority, release impounded housing and utility funds and get an emergency mortgage credit act passed by Congress.

The homebuilders earlier called for lowering FHA and VA rates to 7 per cent.

The resolution was prompted by a sharp decline in 1973 housing starts. After record years of 2,084,500 starts in 1971 and 2,378,500 in 1972, there were only an estimated 2,050,000 starts last year.

Former AEC chairman Strauss dies

CULPEPER, Va. (AP) — Funeral services for Rear Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and interim secretary of commerce, will be Thursday in New York.

Strauss, 77, died at his farm here Monday after returning from Washington where he had undergone treatment for cancer.

Strauss was a native of Charleston, W. Va., and during his life served as an adviser to five presidents. He helped spur development of the hydrogen bomb, and was a well-known financier.

He served as a private secretary to Herbert Hoover in 1919 and later became a partner in a New York banking firm.

In 1941 he was ordered to active duty in the Navy as a lieutenant commander and soon rose to the position of special assistant to the vice chief of naval operations. In 1946 he was named to the Atomic Energy Commission.

In 1958 President Eisenhower gave Strauss the interim appointment as commerce secretary, but his nomination to the post full-time was defeated in Congress.

Oil leasing increase set by Morton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton wants to multiply offshore oil leasing to ten times its 1973 rate within the next few years.

Morton also said in an interview that his department would get more than $50 million for coal-production research in fiscal 1975 to start a rapid expansion of coal research.

Although his department has been overshadowed by the new Federal Energy Office, Morton said it was still Interior's "massive responsibility" to increase the nation's coal, oil and gas resources.

In 1973, Interior leased around one million acres of federal offshore areas for oil and gas development, and Morton had planned to increase the leasing rate to three million acres a year by 1978, a department spokesman said.

Now, Morton said in the interview, he expects the rate to reach that three-million-acre mark this year, then perhaps jump to five million in 1975 and soar to ten million acres per year "for a couple of years thereafter."

Morton also said that he wants to begin consideration of a joint U.S.-Canadian pipeline for natural gas from the Arctic, and he suggested he might invite himself along on a visit planned by energy chief William E. Simon to Canadian energy minister Donald McDonald.

Milk monopoly plan bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — A court deposition from a former official of the nation's largest dairy cooperative indicates the firm sought to gain control of all milk supplies in the United States.

The cooperative, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., is currently facing government antitrust action for allegedly illegal monopoly practices.

David L. Parr said in a deposition that a major aim of the Texas-based firm was "to manage or control the total supply of milk in the United States, including imports and exports."

The civil antitrust action against the cooperative has not yet come to trial. It was initiated in 1972 after then-Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell turned down a proposed grand jury probe of the company's activities.

The cooperative pledged $2 million to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign and eventually gave $202,000.

A separate controversy has surfaced surrounding those contributions, with the White House denying that the gifts had anything to do with the President's ordering a 1971 increase in milk price supports.

Solons eye public works

WASHINGTON (AP) — Public works and health were the subjects of congressional action Monday as the second session of the 93rd Congress got underway.

The Senate also began considering energy legislation, but no votes are expected until later in the week.

A bill authorizing $533.2 million to deal with crib deaths and alcoholism, to overhaul federal programs for health statistics and to aid medical libraries was approved by the House.

The Senate overwhelmingly rejected a plan to cut 10 water projects from a $1.28 billion public works bill.

The reduction proposed by Sen. James L. Buckley, Con-R-N.Y., was beaten 71 to 9.

Consideration of the public works bill is to continue with eight amendments to be acted upon before the final vote.

Hijacked plane lands in Havana

BARRANQUILLA, Colombia (AP) — A hijacked Colombian airliner with 18 persons aboard was believed to have landed early today in Havana.

Commandeered by an armed young Ecuadorian, the four-engine Vickers Viscount turboprop was due in the Cuban capital about 1 a.m. EDT after a 1,000-mile flight across the Caribbean.

Havana Radio made no announcement of the plane's arrival, but since there was no word that it had crashed or was missing, it was assumed it got there.

Officials of Aeropesca, a domestic Colombian airline, said 42 other passengers and a crew of four were aboard the plane Monday when Jorge Raimundo Tapia Canon took it over on a flight between Pasto and Popayan, both in southwest Colombia.

Cincy area woman dies in house fire

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Fern Bietman, 55, of Groesbeck, died Monday when flames engulfed her two-story home, police said.

An investigation is continuing, according to fire authorities.

No cause was immediately determined. There was no damage estimate.

Pre-sentence reports pushed

the report, courts would be authorized to commit the defendant up to 60 days while the information is being gathered. That time would be credited against any sentence later imposed.

The 40-year-old Dayton Democrat said the legislation allows counties to enter into contracts with the Ohio Department of Corrections to provide investigations and the actual pre-sentence reports.

"The state corrections system is working hard to provide effective rehabilitation programs for offenders. This legislation is aimed at helping the corrections system do an even better job," he said.

86 teens, teachers at Prayer Breakfast

"How To Approach God" was the topic during the meditation period for the 86 teens and teachers attending the Prayer Breakfast at the South Side Church of Christ this morning. The parable that Jesus told about the Pharisee and the Publican was told by Charles J. Richmond, minister.

Michelle Davis and Linda Hollingsworth, sophomores at Washington Senior High School, led the singing.

There were four teachers present; 12 juniors; 20 sophomores, and 38 freshmen.

David Bryan, senior at WSHS, brought the student devotional on "Friendship." He said, "Everyone can have God as a friend."

Mrs. Patty Cox dismissed the group with prayer.
